AXIS TO HEED BALKAN NATION'S WISHES IN IMPOSING NEW PLANS

INTERNATIONAL SITUATION AT A GLANCE

By The Associated Press

Berlin—High command reports sinking of nearly 100,000 tons of enemy shipping by planes, submarines and speedboats; claims new damage by bombing raids on England; authoritative magazine Berlin-Tokyo says Hitler and Mussolini will not force their will on the Balkan states in seeking peace and order there.

Saltburg—Reported that Rumania will deal with Bulgaria and Hungary direct in Balkan territorial tangle; Germany, seeking peace in southeastern Europe, understood to feel that adjustments are necessary there.

London—Nazi bombers resume raids, two shot down; man and woman killed in night bombings; British raid Italian African positions; Malta and Alexandria bombed by Italians.

Havana—Argentina, only dissenter, reported willing to agree to some Pan-American conference plan for protection of western hemisphere against possible European threats.

Washington—Knudsen says United States can speed up arms production to equip army of 2,000,000; defense commission expands naval shipbuilding, will construct $92,000,000 airplane engine plant.

Bucharest—British reported holding three Rumanian ships at Port in reprisal for confiscation of British oil interests in Rumania.

HITLER AND MUSSOLINI DISPOSED TO COOPERATE TO MEET DESIRES

BULLETIN

Rome, July 27.—(P)—A virtual agreement has been reached for Rumania to yield part of Dobruja to Hungary and part of Dobruja to Bulgaria, usually well informed source here said today. An agreement to yield has been secured from Rumania, this source said, but details such as a probable exchange of minority populations remain to be worked out. Others in touch with Balkan capitals expressed the belief that, in exchange, Rumania will receive a guarantee of protection against Soviet Russia by Germany and Italy.

Berlin, July 27.—(P)—Adolf Hitler today received Bulgarian premier Bogdan Philoff and Foreign Minister Ivan Popoff at his street at Obersalzberg after his conversations with Rumanian statesmen yesterday. The Bulgarians were received in the presence of Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Berlin, July 27.—Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini, conferring today with Balkan statesmen on the axis powers' plans for a new order in southeastern Europe, do not propose to establish their will arbitrarily in the Balkans, according to the authoritative magazine, Berlin-Rome-Tokyo.

The publication, issued under Nazi foreign office auspices, said the axis "doubtless" could be arbitrary, but was disposed to cooperate to an extent corresponding to the Balkan nations' expressed desire for "natural, lasting freedom and orderly relations to one another."

SAVAGE ENEMY ASSAULTS ARE RESUMED OVER ENGLISH CHANNEL

London, July 27.—(P)—British fighter planes clashed with clouds of German bombers roaring across the southeast coast today in the third successive day of unprecedented wholesale raids on England. While the swift RAF ships darted, turned and dived to the attack against the streams of German fighters, one big black Nazi bomber was shot down in the day's engagements.

This was believed to be one of two raiders officially announced shot down in the day's engagements. More raiders crossed the coast two hours after this swarm of German attackers had been broken up. They, too, were driven back across the channel by fighters and constantly booming anti-aircraft guns.

In still another raid, four German bombers made a hit-and-run attack on a southeastern English town. Each dropped a single bomb, which officials said caused no serious damage.

The battle planes operated in and out of low-hanging cloud banks. A total of 29 German planes had been

FRESH SUCCESSES ON LAND AND AT SEA ARE CLAIMED IN BERLIN

By The Associated Press

Berlin, July 27.—Deeply engaged in the one hand with diplomatic moves apparently aimed at territorial revision in the Balkans, Germany claimed fresh successes today in the military field at sea and in the air.

A high command communique asserted the Nazis had sunk nearly 100,000 tons of "enemy" shipping and carried out several damaging raids on the British Isles.

The communique declared one submarine had sunk six armed British merchant ships totaling 33,000 tons, another had sunk 26,338 tons and the British destroyer Whirlwind, and a third had picked the 5,260-ton armed British merchant steamer Sambre out of a convoy and set it to the bottom. The communique did not say where these attacks occurred or the period of time involved.

(The loss of the destroyer Whirlwind was acknowledged by the British July 8.)

Off the south coast of England, four merchant ships totaling 32,000 tons were sunk by speedboats, British merchant ships totaling 33,000 tons.

Travelers arriving here said the Germans were herding the disarmed French soldiers across the line regardless of whether their homes were in occupied or unoccupied territory.

At the demarcation line, the French authorities sent home those who lived in the unoccupied zone and kept the others in the army in the hope of getting German permission to send them to their homes in the north of France.

How to feed these soldiers "exiled" in their own country is a gigantic problem to the Vichy government, already trying to find sustenance for Belgian and other refugees.

Feeding Of Disarmed Soldiers Is Proving Most Perplexing One for Vichy Government

Bern, Switzerland, July 27.—(P)—In an effort to reduce the millions of hungry mouths in German-held portions of France, the German army of occupation is reported to be releasing hundreds of thousands of imprisoned French soldiers and showing them across the demarcation line into French-held territory, it was reported today.

Released prisoners whose homes are in the unoccupied zone are deported, but officials of the Vichy government, already hard-pressed for food supplies, are described as frightened and perplexed by the problem of feeding the former soldiers.

Temperatures Near Normal Next Week

Weather outlook for the week beginning Monday: North and middle Atlantic states: Occasional showers first half of week and general fair latter half. Temperature will be lower at beginning of week, warmer middle and cooler about Thursday. The average temperature for the week will likely be normal or slightly above.

Great Lakes: Showers Monday or Tuesday and again toward end of week; temperatures near normal.

PRODUCTION OF ARMS AND SHIPS BEING GEARED UP

By The Associated Press

Washington, July 27.—Assurances that the United States can gear up its arms production to equip a force of 2,000,000 men came from the defense industrial chief today as steps were taken to expand naval shipbuilding and construct a $92,000,000 aircraft engine plant.

Laying out a balance sheet of both the progress and problems of the rearmament effort, William S. Knudsen, defense commission member in charge of production, said in a statement:

"This can be accomplished just as fast as the best production facilities and techniques in the world can gain momentum through favorable congressional action upon this augmented program."

Congressional study of the program, for which President Roosevelt recently requested an additional $4,800,000,000, continued with Knudsen himself and Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., another defense commission member, testifying privately before a House appropriations subcommittee yesterday.

The Senate will open debate early next week on the completed committee draft of a compulsory military training bill, only peace-time conscription measure in American history. The only other important defense measure remaining is the $4,800,000,000 appropriation bill.

Out of funds already voted, Knudsen said at a press conference yesterday, $1,728,195,928 in army and navy contracts have been cleared by the defense commission in its eight weeks of existence.

With more money on the way to start laying keels for a two-ocean navy twice the size of the present fleet, he said that naval shipbuilding would be extended beyond the Atlantic seaboard to five "dormant" yards on the Pacific and Gulf coasts.

A $32,000,000 advance given the Wright Aeronautical Corporation by the RFC represented the agency's first major defense production loan. The money will be used for a plant near Cincinnati, O., to boost the firm's output of high-speed engines to 12,000 a year.

PATRONAGE PURGE ON IN LOUISIANA

Baton Rouge, La., July 27.—(P)—About 20,000 state employees, the rank and file of the old Huey Long political machine job holders, were on the way out in Louisiana today.

Reform Governor Sam Jones, who smashed the long dictatorship by shunting aside the gubernatorial reign of the late senator's younger brother, Earl, decreed the patronage purge.

The exodus after much bickering by restless job aspirants waiting since May, when Jones took office, was ready to get into full swing under a mutual understanding that Jones would give half the jobs to his fellow campaigner and aide, former Governor James A. Noe.

(The loss of the destroyer Whirlwind was acknowledged by the British July 8.)

Agreement By a Peace Subcommittee on Plan to Prevent European Possessions In the Western Hemisphere from Falling Into Different Hands Is Announced by Chairman and Writing Of Final Drafts Is Undertaken

NEGOTIATORS MEET AT AN EARLY HOUR

Havana, July 27.—(P)—Agreement by a peace subcommittee on a plan to prevent European possessions in the western hemisphere from falling into different hands was announced today by the Argentine chairman, Leopoldo Melo.

Melo said only the writing of final drafts and agreements were necessary before the report is presented to the full peace commission at 4 p. m.

His announcement came after the subcommittee had wrestled with the knotty question of European possessions in the new world at a conference lasting since early morning.

It was regarded as highly significant that the announcement came from Melo, whose government had been considered the chief stumbling block to such an accord.

MORE SUSPECTS HELD IN DOUBLE SLAYING

Pittsburgh, July 27.—(P)—Fifteen men were picked up for questioning today, but only two were held as suspects, in the investigation of the slaying last Wednesday of blonde divorcee Carrie Kolb and her boarder, John Edgar Ewing.

The two held, both detained as material witnesses, were among the 15 men Homicide Detective Captain Franklin McQuaide said were known to have been within three blocks of the street shootings.

The police continued to question one man held as a suspect. The father of six children, he admits having known the slain pair, but denies knowledge of the shootings. No charges have been brought.

WILLKIE WORKS ON HIS SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE

By WILLIAM B. ARDERY
Colorado Springs, Colo., July 27.—(P)—Wendell L. Willkie began drafting today his address accepting the Republican presidential nomination and associates predicted a major portion of it would be devoted to an attack on "machine politics."

The nominee was expected to renew previous blasts against what he terms "the Kelly-Nashes, the Hagues and the Crumps."

Willkie planned to have a rough draft of his speech completed by tomorrow. He said he still expected to confer with several persons before he puts in final form the address he will make at his home town, Elwood, Ind., August 17.

There was talk among Willkie supporters here that his followers might seek to form a third party in an effort to capture Democratic votes in the south.

Willkie said he would conduct "a real" and "not a phony" campaign for votes in the southern states.

The third party idea, Willkie associates said, grew from the assumption it might help overcome the traditional reluctance of many southern Democrats to vote the Republican ticket. In some states, however, Democrats voting for independent electors might be subjected to the same party discipline imposed on those who vote for Republican electors.

It was said authoritatively that the possibility of forming a new party hinged largely upon whether state laws would permit third-party adherents to vote for Republican electors. State laws on that point now are under study.

Draft Of Bill Calling For Registration Of Men 18 to 64 Made Public By Committee

Measure Is Scheduled To Receive Formal Vote Of Approval Tuesday and Be Taken Up in the Senate Shortly Thereafter.

DETERMINING AGES

Washington, July 27.—(P)—The Senate military committee made public today its final draft of a bill calling for the registration for military service of all men in the nation between the ages of 18 and 64.

The measure is scheduled to receive a formal committee vote of approval next Tuesday and to be taken up in the Senate shortly thereafter. Administration authorities have said that if Congress passed the bill in August, they could make the registration in September and begin training the contingent of 400,000 on October 1.

Using the day of registration, the date of which would be within the discretion of the President—as the day for determining ages of men affected, the bill defines the phrase "between the ages of 18 and 64" as meaning "men who have reached the 18th anniversary of the day of their birth and who have not reached the 64th anniversary of the day of their birth."

That same standard would be applied to determining exact ages in other age-group breakdowns, which include these provisions on the service men of various ages would be subject to:

"Men between the ages of 21 and 45 x x x shall be liable for training and service in the land

CRAMP SHIPYARDS TO START OPERATING

Philadelphia, July 27.—(P)—The long-closed Cramp shipyards will be reopened in the interest of national defense regardless of the outcome of a proposed reorganization plan, says Mayor Robert E. Lambertson.

He disclosed last night a telephone conversation with Rear Admiral Samuel M. Robinson and quoted the navy's chief of bureau of ships as saying:

"The (Cramp) shipyard is going to be reopened for shipbuilding in the national defense program whether the present reorganization plan goes through or not."

FOUR IN FAMILY BURNED IN BLAZE

Grandville, July 27.—(P)—Four members of a Grandville family were critically burned or injured today in a fire that apparently also destroyed the body of a relative awaiting burial.

The injured: Patrick J. Stack, 24, former Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Co. policeman, burns of face and hands; his wife, Mary, 74, burns of the arms, face, back and hands; their daughter, Ann, 35, a school teacher, possible spinal injuries; their son, Girard, 22, an attorney, burns of the entire body. All were taken to the Grandville State Hospital.

HUNDREDS OF SHADE TREES BLOWN DOWN OR DAMAGED BY WIND

In one of the most severe storms that has visited the borough in many years, wind and lightning yesterday afternoon caused damage to trees, homes, public utility lines and other property which is expected to run into several thousand dollars.

With borough workmen, telephone and electric company employees and home owners still working to clear away the debris, actual loss from the storm, which assumed the proportions of a hurricane, could not be estimated today.

Although some other places in this section reported severe electrical storms and high wind, most of the damage was concentrated in Warren, according to reports.

The storm struck very suddenly about two o'clock. The center of the storm seemed to start in the vicinity of the railroad bridge crossing the Allegheny river near the depot and moved in a general northeasterly direction across the borough to a point in the Conewango avenue section. It was estimated that more than two hundred trees were blown down or badly damaged by wind and lightning. In Crescent Park alone there were at least 25 trees damaged.

While most of the damage on the South Side was in Crescent Park, several other streets in that section felt the force of the storm. Large trees in Main avenue were badly damaged and others were damaged in St. Clair street, Wayne street, Cygna avenue and adjacent territory.

It was necessary to close Crescent Park to automobile traffic last night because of the danger from falling limbs and poles.

At the east end of the park, near the bridge, two huge trees were blown down and the park flag pole was bent in the middle so that its top hit the ground.

Across the river, trees were damaged in the section between Pennsylvania avenues from Beech street east. A large tree near the corner of Beech and Pennsylvania was destroyed and another on the lawn of the American Legion Home was badly damaged.

Much damage was caused to trees in Fourth avenue, although it was not so severe in that section. In Third avenue, from Pennsylvania to Hickory street, there was much damage, particularly in the block between Hazel and Poplar streets. A huge tree limb which was broken off across from the central fire station did much damage to electrical wires.

While most of the residential section east of Market street, between Third and Seventh avenues, felt the force of the storm, one of the most concentrated points of damage was in Water street, near Sixth avenue. There, within a very small area, eight large trees were badly damaged and at least three houses damaged.

Two limbs from trees were leaning against the roof of the home of Mrs. Cora A. Meyer, 514 Water street. At the home of J. P. Brooks, 520 Water street, a tree crashed onto the porch roof causing much damage. Mr. Brooks was reported to have been standing on the porch when the tree fell, but he was uninjured.

Across the Conewango creek, the large tent located at Conewango avenue and Pioneer street, which was being used for revival meetings, was torn from its moorings and ripped in two by the high wind. A huge oak tree on the Roy property in Conewango avenue was blown to the ground, and trees on the Beaty and Clinger properties between Third and Fifth avenues, were damaged.

In several sections, automobiles were reported to have been damaged by falling trees. Many others narrowly escaped damage.

Much damage was reported by the Pennsylvania Electric Company, the Bell Telephone Company, Postal Telegraph and Western Union.

COMPLETE PLANS TO OPEN NEW 'PIKE

Harrisburg, July 27.—(P)—Officials of the Turnpike Commission are hoping to open the new $70,000,000 master highway for public travel the day after it is dedicated. Chief Engineer Samuel W. Marshall said today:

"The bottleneck of construction progress is work on the ventilation systems in the seven tunnels, but the commission still expects to dedicate the Harrisburg-Pittsburgh thoroughfare on Labor Day."

"Definitely we will have the tunnel ventilation systems completed by September 1," Marshall declared.

"Grasshopper" Type Plane Takes Off And Lands On Space Small As a Tennis Court

Willow Grove, July 27.—(P)—A "grasshopper" type of airplane able to take off and land in a space no larger than a tennis court is the aviation industry's latest contribution to flying.

Developed by the Pitcairn Autogiro Company the new type autogiro literally hops into the air. Its predecessors could land at a dead stop, but required a runway for the takeoff.

In its first public demonstration yesterday, the new ship leaped skyward more than 20 feet, easily clearing an 18-foot high rope barrier.

This "jump takeoff" ability, said Harold F. Pitcairn, president, of the company, makes the plane "completely independent of ground obstacles" and makes possible the use of landing fields one-eighth the size of regular airports.

The takeoff is made by speeding the overhead rotor blades—100 more than the blades are in a horizontal position. The pilot then tilts the blades and the giro shoots vertically into the air.

Designed primarily for private use, the autogiro uses automobile type starting, lighting and ignition systems, and seats. The engine is located behind the seat to lighten the plane's nose and provide better vision for the pilot.

WEIGHS 20 LBS. AT BIRTH

Poplar Bluff, Mo., July 27.—(P)—A daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hunter, negroes, near here 11 days ago, "undoubtedly weighed 20 pounds at birth," Dr. J. W. McPheters, county health officer, reported. While the infant today weighs under 17 pounds, the physician said the loss was normal for new-born babies. Mrs. Hunter, mother of nine other children, was attended by a midwife.

PROTECTION OF PANAMA CANAL IS GIVEN TEST

Balboa, Canal Zone, July 27.—The Panama Canal Zone defenses were checked for possible loopholes today after according a hot reception to swarms of "enemy" planes which roared across the Narrows isthmus last night in a surprise attack simulating modern blitzkrieg methods, and, incidentally, catching defense officers in their dinner clothes.

Pending an analysis of detailed field reports, staff officers would not say whether the defenses had scored an unqualified victory, but their grim smiles indicated they were far from disatisfied with the protectors of the canal, a vital key to western hemisphere defense.

In the absence of official comment, the best indications of the efficiency of the defense was the fact that the alert signal was sounded an hour before the raiders were in position to strike, although the raid had been planned with such secrecy that only those in the highest places knew it was coming.

Except for the actual crash of exploding bombs, the attack, executed by planes from the Coco Solo naval base on the Atlantic side, was carried out under conditions closely resembling actual warfare.

For 45 minutes searchlights stabbed the air as formations of high-speed bombers swept over the vital waterway searching for vulnerable points. Flares which the raiders dropped instead of bombs gave an eerie brilliance to the scene.

The exact number of planes participating was uncertain, but one outpost on the Pacific coast reported that a score of big bombers had been spotted by searchlights.

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 27.—(P)—Wendell L. Willkie began drafting today his address accepting the Republican presidential nomination and associates predicted a major portion of it would be devoted to an attack on "machine politics."

The nominee was expected to renew previous blasts against what he terms "the Kelly-Nashes, the Hagues and the Crumpes."

Willkie planned to have a rough draft of his speech completed by tomorrow. He said he still expected to confer with several persons before he puts in final form the address he will make at his home town, Elwood, Ind., August 17.

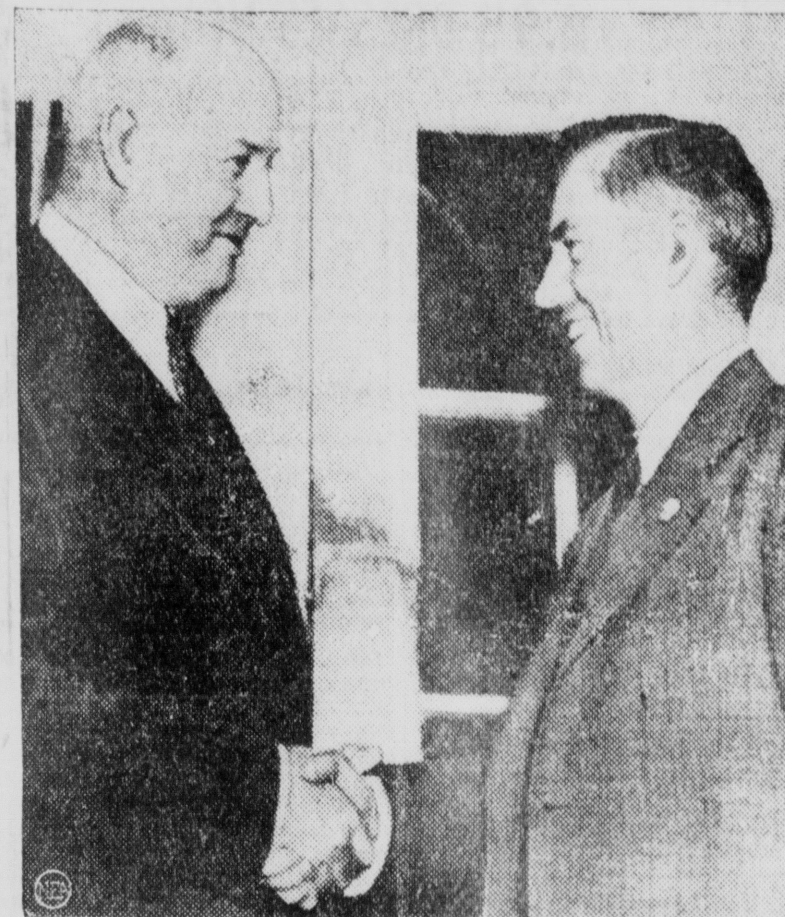

There was talk among Willkie supporters here that his followers might seek to form a third party in an effort to capture Democratic votes in the south.

Willkie said he would conduct "a real" and "not a phony" campaign for votes in the southern states.

The third party idea, Willkie associates said, grew from the assumption it might help overcome the traditional reluctance of many southern Democrats to vote the Republican ticket. In some states, however, Democrats voting for independent electors might be subject to the same party discipline imposed on those who vote for Republican electors.

It was said authoritatively that the possibility of forming a new party hinged largely upon whether state laws would permit third-party adherents to vote for Republican electors. State laws on that point now are under study.

Going In or Going Out?

Two men believed on their way out of the cabinet shake hands before going in to one of its sessions at the White House. They are Postmaster General James A. Farley and Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace, Democratic vice presidential candidate, who may resign for fall campaigning.

Draft Of Bill Calling For Registration Of Men 18 to 64 Made Public By Committee

Measure Is Scheduled To Receive Formal Vote Of Approval Tuesday and Be Taken Up in the Senate Shortly Thereafter.

DETERMINING AGES

Washington, July 27.—(P)—The Senate military committee made public today its final draft of a bill calling for the registration for military service of all men in the nation between the ages of 18 and 64.

The measure is scheduled to receive a formal committee vote of approval next Tuesday and to be taken up in the Senate shortly thereafter. Administration authorities have said that if congress passed the bill in August, they could make the registration in September and begin training the first contingent of 400,000 on October 1.

Using the day of registration—the date of which would be within the discretion of the President—as the day for determining ages of men affected, the bill defines the phrase "between the ages of 18 and 64" as meaning "men who have reached the 18th anniversary of the day of their birth and who have not reached the 64th anniversary of the day of their birth."

That same standard would be applied to determining exact ages in other age-group breakdowns, which include these provisions on the service men of various ages would be subject to:

"Men between the ages of 21 and 45 x x x shall be liable for training and service in the land (Turn to Page Thirteen)

CRAMP SHIPYARDS TO START OPERATING

Philadelphia, July 27.—(P)—The long-closed Cramp shipyards will be reopened in the interest of national defense regardless of the outcome of a proposed reorganization, says Mayor Robert E. Lamberton.

He disclosed last night a telephone conversation with Rear Admiral Samuel M. Robinson and quoted the navy's chief of bureau of ships as saying:

"The (Cramp) shipyard is going to be reopened for shipbuilding in the national defense program whether the present reorganization plan goes through or not."

FOUR IN FAMILY BURNED IN BLAZE

Girardville, July 27.—(P)—Four members of a Girardville family were critically burned or injured today in a fire that apparently also destroyed the body of a relative awaiting burial.

The injured: Patrick J. Stack, 75, former Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Co. policeman, burns of face and hands; his wife, Mary, 74, burns of the arms, face, back and hands; their daughter, Ann, 35, a school teacher, possible internal injuries; their son, Girard, 22, an attorney, burns of the entire body. All were taken to the Ashland State Hospital.

Friends and neighbors had visited the home last night to view the body of Mrs. Stack's sister, Cath-

HUNDREDS OF SHADE TREES BLOWN DOWN OR DAMAGED BY WIND

In one of the most severe storms that has visited the borough in many years, wind and lightning yesterday afternoon caused damage to trees, homes, public utility lines and other property which is expected to run into several thousand dollars.

With borough workmen, telephone and electric company employees and home owners still working to clear away the debris, actual loss from the storm, which assumed the proportions of a hurricane, could not be estimated today.

Although some other places in this section reported severe electrical storms and high wind, most of the damage was concentrated in Warren, according to reports.

The storm struck very suddenly about two o'clock. The center of the storm seemed to start in the vicinity of the railroad bridge crossing the Allegheny river near the depot and moved in a general northeasterly direction across the borough to a point in the Conewago avenue sector. It was estimated that more than two hundred trees were blown down or badly damaged by wind and lightning. In Crescent Park alone there were at least 25 trees damaged.

While most of the damage on the South Side was in Crescent Park, several other streets in that section felt the force of the storm. Large trees in Main avenue were badly damaged and others were damaged in St. Clair street, Wayne street, Cayuga avenue and adjacent territory.

It was necessary to close Crescent Park to automobile traffic last night because of the danger from falling limbs and poles.

At the east end of the park, near the bridge, two huge trees were blown down and the park flag pole was bent in the middle so that its top hit the ground.

Across the river, trees were damaged in the section between Pennsylvania avenues from Beech street east. A large tree near the corner of Beech and Pennsylvania was destroyed and another on the lawn of the American Legion Home was badly damaged.

Much damage was caused to trees in Fourth avenue, although it was not so severe in that section. In Third avenue, from Pennsylvania to Hickory street, there was much damage, particularly in the block between Hazel and Poplar streets. A huge tree limb which was broken off across from the central fire station did much damage to electrical wires.

While most of the residential section east of Market street, between Third and Seventh avenues, felt the force of the storm, one of the most concentrated points of damage was in Water street, near Sixth avenue. There, within a very small area, eight large trees were badly damaged and at least three houses damaged.

Two limbs from trees were leaning against the roof of the home of Mrs. Cora A. Meyer, 514 Water street. At the home of J. P. Brooks, 529 Water street, a tree crashed onto the porch roof causing much damage. Mr. Brooks was reported to have been standing on the porch when the tree fell, but he was uninjured.

Across the Conewago creek, the large tent located at Conewago avenue and Pioneer street, which was being used for revival meetings, was torn from its moorings and ripped in two by the high wind. A huge oak tree on the Roy property in Conewago avenue was blown to the ground, and trees on the Beatty and Cline properties between Third and Fifth avenues, were damaged.

In several sections, automobiles were reported to have been damaged by falling trees. Many others narrowly escaped damage.

Much damage was reported by the Pennsylvania Electric Company, Postal Telegraph and Western Union.

COMPLETE PLANS TO OPEN NEW PIKE

Harrisburg, July 27.—(P)—Officials of the Turnpike Commission are hoping to open the new $70,000,000 master highway for public travel the day after it is dedicated. Chief Engineer Samuel W. Marshall said today.

The bottleneck of construction progress is work on the ventilation systems in the seven tunnels, but the commission still expects to dedicate the Harrisburg-Pittsburgh thoroughfare on Labor Day.

"Definitely we will have the tunnel ventilation systems completed by September 1," Marshall declared.

WEIGHS 20 LBS. AT BIRTH

Poplar Bluff, Mo., July 27.—(P)—A daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hunter, negroes, near here 11 days ago "undoubtedly weighed 20 pounds at birth," Dr. J. W. McPheeters, county health officer, reported. While the infant today weighs under 17 pounds, the physician said the loss was normal for new-born babies. Mrs. Hunter, mother of nine other children, was attended by a midwife.

In the absence of official comment, the best indications of the efficiency of the defense was the fact that the alert signal was sounded an hour before the raiders were in position to strike, although the raid had been planned with such secrecy that only those in the highest places knew it was coming.

Except for the actual crash of exploding bombs, the attack, executed by planes from the Coco Solo naval base on the Atlantic side, was carried out under conditions closely resembling actual warfare.

For 45 minutes searchlights stabbed the air as formations of high-speed bombers swept over the vital waterway searching for vulnerable points. Flares which the raiders dropped instead of bombs gave an eerie brilliance to the scene.

The exact number of planes participating was uncertain, but one outpost on the Pacific coast reported that a score of big bombers had been spotted by searchlights.

This "jump takeoff" ability, said Harold F. Pitcairn, president, of the company, makes the plane "completely independent of ground obstacles" and makes possible the use of landing fields one-eighth the size of regular airports.

The takeoff is made by speeding the overhead rotor blades to 300 rotations per minute—100 more than under flying conditions—while the blades are in a horizontal position. The pilot then tilts the blades and the 'giro shoots vertically into the air.

Designed primarily for private use, the autogiro uses automobile type starting, lighting and ignition systems, and seats. The engine is located behind the seat to lighten the plane's nose and provide better vision for the pilot.

BROWNIE GIRLS ENJOY WEEK AT BIRDSALL EDEY

Twenty Brownie Scouts, between seven and ten years of age, have spent this week at Camp Birdsall Edey, Warren county Girl Scout camp.

The girls have greatly enjoyed the swimming and are reported to have made good progress under the direction of Miss Betty Morrison, of Pittsburgh, the swimming instructor.

Other staff members this week have included Miss Ya Pu Lee, of Peiping, China; Miss Lydia Dickinson, of Ludlow; Miss Jean McQuilken, of Bradford, and Mrs. A. N. Correll, county Girl Scout director.

The campers have been Ruth Davis, Janice Dorsey, Shirley Good, Sarah Lou Irvine, Jo Ann Kehrl, Carl Jane King, Elizabeth Kolpen, Margaret Lewis, Millie Marie McManus, Connie McNulty, Gretchen Radspinner, Mary Scholten, Marcelle Stargardt, Beverly Simon, Janet Trill, Lucy Trusler, Mary Orr, Janet and Sally Watt, Warren; Phyllis Brezelle, Pittsfield.

A session of "day camp" for Girl Scouts will be held at the camp from July 31 through August 3, with sessions from nine in the morning until three in the afternoon each day.

Members of the staff who have served during the summer will stay for day camp and additional counselors will be added to make one counselor for each six campers.

Program activities will include swimming, hiking, handcraft, singing and nature study. Metal craft has been added for the older girls. Hammered, etched and pierced bracelets and bowls will be made in the blacksmith shop, which has been renamed The Forge and prepared for the purpose. Jean McQuilken will teach this craft. Miss Lee will have charge in the craft building, where wood carving and other arts will be taught.

Girl Scouts who would like to take advantage of the day camp program and have not yet registered should do so between one and five on Monday at the Girl Scout office, 311 Market street.

HEAT ODDITIES

By The Associated Press
Hershey, July 27.—(P)—As if it weren't hot enough outside, a Philippine quail smaller than a man's thumb is being nursed along in an incubator at the Hershey zoo. Born in an incubator after 21 days of 100-degree temperature, the midget bird now is being kept at 90 degrees and fed with crumbled hard-boiled eggs, milk, and a commercial pheasant ration.

Boston, July 27.—(P)—John Reno of East Boston, a summer time Santa Claus, did his bit to relieve the heat which gripped the city last night. He won $190 at Suffolk Downs in the afternoon, hitting the daily double and four other races and used $25 of it in the evening to buy out a truckload of ice cream to feed to the kids in his sweltering neighborhood.

Philadelphia, July 27.—(P)—"Things just seem to happen when the weather gets hot," for instance. A horse laid down on the Pennsylvania tracks yesterday and delayed 3,000 perspiring commuters on their way home to cool off, and at Reading police braved the noon-day sun to investigate a complaint that two "suspicious characters" were trying to sell a fur coat. But 33-year-old Thomas Forbes, of Reading, supplied the

Oath Of Allegiance To U. S. A. Required Of All NYA Workers

Over 20,000 youth employed by the National Youth Administration in Pennsylvania have taken the oath of allegiance to the United States of America, according to a special dispatch from Harrisburg.

The oaths were administered to groups of NYA in each of the state's 67 counties. According to Walter S. Cowing, state youth administrator, those taking the oath included full-time as well as part-time personnel.

In Warren county the oath was administered individually to each youth on the NYA program by Robert Williams, county supervisor of the program.

The state youth head stated that with the opening of the NYA school work program in September, every student receiving NYA aid will be required to take the oath of allegiance. The student work program employs from 35,000 to 45,000 young people in high schools and colleges in Pennsylvania.

Commenting on the taking of the oath, Mr. Cowing said that "it is not only a precautionary measure aimed at eliminating aliens and undesirable, but it is a stimulant for our young people." He pointed out that this step "further impressed upon NYA employees, particularly its youth workers, the need for unity of thought and action and gave to youth the opportunity to rededicate themselves to true, democratic American principles."

RANDOLPH HOME BOYS ARRESTED IN GRAND VALLEY

Two inmates of the Randolph, N. Y., Children's Home were apprehended in Grand Valley yesterday afternoon about twelve hours after they had stolen a car in Randolph and broken into a service station at Quaker Bridge.

The boys, Ed Roy Clark, 13, and George F. Bogardus, 13, left the home about two o'clock Friday morning, broke into the Brown garage at Randolph and stole a Ford coupe after first taking the license plates from a truck.

According to the story they told Private B. A. Reeder, of the state motor police, the boys went to Corydon and Bradford and then to Quaker Bridge where they entered a filling station looking for money. Finding none, they stole a quantity of cigarettes, candy and gum, and drove west through Warren.

At Grand Valley they ran out of gas and while attempting to charge a tankful to the home they aroused the suspicions of the dealer who informed Constable Francis H. Confer. The Grand Valley officer called the motor police who made the arrest.

The boys are held in the local detention room at the warden's home on fugitive from justice charges and will be turned over to New York State authorities. They will probably face charges of larceny and burglary in that state.

"DR. CHRISTIAN MEETS THE WOMEN" OPENS TODAY AT COLUMBIA

For the first time in many years, Jean Hersholt turns to comedy with the starring role in "Dr. Christian Meets the Women."

Although this assignment is not essentially humorous, it gives Hersholt an opportunity to portray the lighter side of a small town doctor's life. In "Dr. Christian Meets the Women," the third of the popular picture series, Hersholt is faced with complex problems arising from the maladies which befall the scores of women in the town who had undertaken overstraining reducing diets and calisthenics.

"DAYS OF JESSE JAMES" Three new songs, destined for national popularity, are featured in the Columbia Theatre's current offering, "Days of Jesse James."

"I'm a Son of a Cowboy," "Sadie Your Dreams" and "Echo Mountain" all are sung by Roy Rogers in the production. They were composed by Peter Tinturin.

BROWNIE GIRLS ENJOY WEEK AT BIRDSALL EDEY

Twenty Brownie Scouts, between seven and ten years of age, have spent this week at Camp Birdsall Edey, Warren county Girl Scout camp.

The girls have greatly enjoyed the swimming and are reported to have made good progress under the direction of Miss Betsy Morrison, of Pittsburgh, the swimming instructor.

Other staff members this week have included Miss Ya Fu Lee, of Peiping, China; Miss Lydia Dickson, of Ludlow; Miss Jean McQuillen, of Bradford; and Mrs. A. N. Correll, county Girl Scout director.

The campers have been Ruth Davis, Janice Dorsey, Shirley Good, Sarah Lou Irvine, Jo Ann Kehrl, Carl Jane King, Elizabeth Kolpien, Margaret Lewis, Millie Marie McManus, Connie McNulty, Gretchen Radspinner, Mary Scholton, Marcelle Stargardt, Beverly Simon, Janet Tritt, Lucy Trusler, Mary Uhr, Janet and Sally Watt, Warren; Phyllis Brezelle, Pittsfield.

A session of "day camp" for Girl Scouts will be held at the camp from July 31 through August 3, with sessions from nine in the morning until three in the afternoon each day.

Members of the staff who have served during the summer will stay for day camp and additional counselors will be added to make one counselor for each six campers.

Program activities will include swimming, hiking, handicraft, singing and nature study. Metal craft has been added for the older girls. Hammered, etched and pierced bracelets and bowls will be made in the blacksmith shop, which has been renamed The Forge and prepared for the purpose. Jean McQuillen will teach this craft. Miss Lee will have charge in the craft building, where wood carving and other arts will be taught.

Girl Scouts who would like to take advantage of the day camp program and have not yet registered should do so between one and five on Monday at the Girl Scout office, 311 Market street.

RANDOLPH HOME BOYS ARRESTED IN GRAND VALLEY

Two inmates of the Randolph, N. Y., Children's Home were apprehended in Grand Valley yesterday afternoon about twelve hours after they had stolen a car in Randolph and broken into a service station at Quaker Bridge.

The boys, Ed Roy Clark, 13, and George F. Bogardus, 13, left the home about two o'clock Friday morning, broke into the Brown garage at Randolph and stole a Ford coupe after first taking the license plates from a truck.

According to the story they told Private B. A. Reeder, of the state motor police, the boys went to Corydon and Bradford and then to Quaker Bridge where they entered a filling station looking for money. Finding none, they stole a quantity of cigarettes, candy and gum, and drove west through Warren.

At Grand Valley they ran out of gas and while attempting to charge a tankful to the home they aroused the suspicions of the dealer who informed Constable Francis H. Confer. The Grand Valley officer called the motor police who made the arrest.

The boys are held in the local detention room at the warden's home on fugitive from justice charges and will be turned over to New York State authorities. They will probably face charges of larceny and burglary in that state.

Oath Of Allegiance To U. S. A. Required Of All NYA Workers

Over 20,000 youth employed by the National Youth Administration in Pennsylvania have taken the oath of allegiance to the United States of America, according to a special dispatch from Harrisburg.

The oaths were administered to groups of NYA in each of the state's 67 counties. According to Walter S. Cowing, state youth administrator, those taking the oath included full-time as well as part-time personnel.

In Warren county the oath was administered individually to each youth on the NYA program by Robert Williams, county supervisor of the program.

The state youth head stated that with the opening of the NYA school work program in September, every student receiving NYA aid will be required to take the oath of allegiance. The student work program employs from 35,000 to 45,000 young people in high schools and colleges in Pennsylvania.

He pointed out that this step "further impressed upon NYA employees, particularly its youth workers, the need for unity of thought and action and gave to youth the opportunity to re-dedicate themselves to true, democratic American principles."

LOUIS STOCK
The funeral of Louis Stock, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stock, of Pittsfield, was held at nine o'clock Friday morning at St. John's church in Tidoute. Rev. Father Joseph E. McTague officiated and interment was made in the Tidoute cemetery.

Those attending from away were Joe Wayda, Chicago, Ill.; Steve and Alberta Duda, Cleveland, O.; Mary Mchack, Bobtown; Jake Wayda, Uniontown.

MARY T. RATHBUN
Mrs. Mary Tallman Rathbun, former resident of Sugar Grove, died at eight o'clock Friday morning at the home of her son, Floyd A. Rathbun, at Findlay, O., aged 80 years. She had been in ill health for a long time.

She had lived in Sugar Grove until 1913, when she went to live at the home of her son. Her husband preceded her in death in 1911.

Besides the son at whose home she died, she leaves a son, Howard, of Sugar Grove; one sister, Mrs. W. L. Stears, of Findlay, O.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon in Findlay, after which the body will be brought to Sugar Grove. A committal service will be held at the grave in the Wesleyan Methodist cemetery near Sugar Grove Monday afternoon at two o'clock, EST.

GLENN W. HONHART
Glenn Wallace Honhart, of Starbuck, passed away this morning at 2:30 o'clock at the Warren General Hospital after an illness of four months.

He was born in this city on May 3, 1900, a son of Fred and Margaret Tunstall Honhart, and had spent his entire life in this vicinity.

He is survived by his wife, Thresa Way Honhart, a daughter Mildred and a son Robert, both at home. Two brothers and five sisters also survive: Clifford, of Detroit; Louis, of Pontiac, Mich.; Mrs. Gladys Eckman, of Starbuck; Mrs. Evelyn Sulo and Mrs. Hazel Fidler, of Warren; Mrs. Edna McCanna and Mrs. Bernice King, of Erie.

Removal was made to the Peterson Funeral Home where friends may call and where services will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. E. P. Wroth, rector of Trinity Memorial church, officiating.

Interment will be in Westview cemetery at Starbuck.

FREDERICK E. CHAPMAN
Frederick E. Chapman, 129 Conewango avenue, sales manager for the Warren Lamp Company, passed away last evening at the Warren General Hospital.

Removal was made to the Peterson Funeral Home where friends may call.

An obituary and funeral arrangements will be printed on Monday.

JANE M. EDGETT
Miss Jane M. Edgett, lifelong resident of Warren, passed away at 1:50 this morning at the Warren General Hospital. She was a member of the First Baptist church for many years.

Surviving are her mother, Mrs. Marion A. Edgett; two sisters, Mrs. E. T. Drum and Miss Elsie Edgett, and a brother, Charles Edgett, all of Warren.

Funeral services will be held at three o'clock Monday afternoon at the family home, 614 Conewango avenue. Rev. Arthur M. Spiller, of Meadville, will conduct the rites and interment will be made in Oakland cemetery. Friends are asked to kindly omit flowers.

DAVID DANIEL MCKIE

BOYS AND GIRLS MAY REGISTER FOR NYA WORK

Under new regulations announced by the National Youth Administration, any unemployed boy or girl between the ages of 18 and 24 years is now eligible for work on the NYA program in Warren county, it was stated today by Robert Williams, local supervisor. "The bars are down completely on eligibility," Mr. Williams stated. "We are anxious that every boy and girl of the county who is within the age limit register at once, in order that we may get a cross-section of the unemployment problem among the youth here." While all those who register may not be employed on projects immediately, there is a good chance that they may get early employment because of the fact that so many of the youth are finding places in private industry. All those desiring to register for NYA employment should report at the county office in the court house, Mr. Williams stated. He announced that work will be resumed August 5 on the Fourth Avenue paving project, which has been carried on under the NYA program. Fifty boys will be employed on the project.

Altogether, 80 will be employed in NYA projects in the county, Mr. Williams stated.

Casual Slaughterers

By VIRGINIA HANSON

YESTERDAY: Gerald questioned Kay minutely about Sandra's murder, asking if anything in the room has been touched. She thinks not. She moves over to the Pennants and goes with Julia to see Jeff.

Chapter 32

The Whole Truth

THE man on guard closed the door and stayed outside the barred room. He may have been listening, but I don't think Julia thought of that, or would have cared if she had. She went straight to Jeff and put both her hands in his.

"We'll get you out of this," she said in the voice you would use to a frightened child. "It isn't that Dan thinks you did it; he just has to take some action. It's the second murder and they haven't got anywhere with the first yet."

"It's worse than that," he said through stiff lips. "They found a blood-stained towel in my laundry hamper. Dan asked me to explain it, but how could I? I don't know how it got there."

Julia's eyes glared. "Someone's trying to frame you. Any idea who?"

"Don't you suppose I'd tell if I knew?" he asked wearily. "Who gave her that black eye? I didn't. She drew a deep breath, and her face warmed almost to a smile."

"I knew you didn't," she said. I looked away from them, because it wasn't decent to see their defenseless eyes. But I had learned something. It was the first time I had seen Jeff with the barriers down.

They stayed down only an instant. Suddenly he freed his hands from hers and backed a way fairly bristling with barbed-wire defenses. "I don't think it was anything she said or did; it was just reaction from that moment of forgetfulness."

"How would it be?" Julia began bravely. "If we sat down and talked it over? Maybe we could think of something to sit except one chair and the bed," he said churlishly. "And there's nothing to talk over. If you've come here to pump me you can get out."

He glanced at Julia's hurt, bewildered eyes and seemed to grow angrier. He was like a man fighting his own shadow.

"You've probably heard," he went on, with a cold look at me, "that my wife was afraid to occupy a room with me. You can believe that or not, just as you please. It's a matter of indifference to me. I married her. I don't know who killed her. I don't know who killed Ivan. And you can pump me all you like in the face and still go back and tell Dan that's all you found out."

Julia stamped her foot. "I did not come here to find out things for Dan," she stormed. "I came here to help you, but I don't know why I bothered. I've already lied myself blind, and so has Kay."

She stopped, appalled at what she had said.

"Then you'd better tell the truth from now on," he said icily. "When I need lies told for me I'll let you know."

He went to the door and opened it, held it until we had passed through.

Head high, Julia marched down the corridor and out of the hospital, but as soon as we were in the car she gave way to a storm of tears. I took the wheel and drove aimlessly for a while, waiting for her to get control of herself.

Cold Fury

"IF ONLY Adam were here," I said finally, out of the depths of my thoughts. "Julia, he was right. Jeff was right. We'd better tell your father the truth."

"Oh, no, Kay, you don't mean that—not with Dan already thinking Jeff killed her!"

"But the only way we can do anything to help Jeff if he isn't the murderer is to find out who is. And how can we expect to arrive at the truth until we all pool our knowledge?"

"But don't you see—all we've withheld is just what will make it look blacker for Jeff. And I know he didn't do it!"

"Oh, no, that isn't all. How about Mimi—you said it was her car that night at the barge. We haven't told that."

"I never said that," she said quickly, desperately. "You're imagining things."

So that was the way of it. I fell silent, thinking until we drew up once more at the colonel's quarters. Then, before I got out, I gave her my considered decision.

"I'm sorry, Julia, if Adam were here I'd go to him with it. Since he isn't, I will have to be your father."

"You mean—you're going to tell him everything?" she asked. She looked stunned, as if her last friend had deserted her, and I had to steel myself against sympathy.

"Everything," I said firmly. "It's different now. Sandra's death—and the way she was killed—there's no use talking. Julia, come on around here and let's talk. And every time we tell it in that creature's service I'm not going to take the responsibility."

"I see," she said. Her tears were dry, and there was cold fury in her voice. She got out of the car and walked, without a backward glance, into the house and up the stairs to her room.

I had to see the colonel at four, followed her into the house.

AMBASSADORS RETURNING

Rome, July 27 (AP)—U. S. Ambassador William Phillips plans to leave Rome Monday for a brief vacation in the United States. He will be accompanied by Ambassador John Cudahy, who is returning to Washington from Brussels. Cudahy left the Belgian capital after Germany asked all foreign diplomats to leave Belgium and the Netherlands.

Mimi must have been lying down, for the living room and library were untenanted. So presently, feeling myself an unwelcome guest, I went up to my room and put my things back in my overnight bag.

I went down as soon as I heard the colonel come in, and faced him with my quaking across his big desk in the library.

"Colonel Pennant, I have a confession to make," I began.

"I hope you don't mean that literally," he said with a nice smile. The smile put me a little more at my ease. After all, I had danced with this man and laughed at his jokes and warmed to his good-natured flattery. He looked a little tired this afternoon, but his eyes were sad, but he was not formidable.

He placed a chair for me, found cigarettes and supplied me with a light. Then he went back to his chair behind the desk and looked at me expectantly.

"I've been holding something back," I said, looking him straight in the eyes. "This isn't going to be easy, because Julia and I don't see alike about it, and it's sort of like telling tales out of school to come to you with it."

"You mean Julia has been holding out on me, too?" he asked impatiently.

"Yes, but with the best of motives. Please don't let me get her into trouble. I'm fond of Julia. I know she's straight. I just think she's mistaken about this. But where Jeff's concerned—you see, she's in love with him."

"Good Heavens!"

He stared at me across the desk.

Blacker For Jeff

"MAYBE I shouldn't have told you, but I thought it would make you understand better. It's quite true," I assured him.

"I hope you're mistaken," he said simply. "Jeff will almost certainly stand trial for murder."

"You mean you think he's guilty?"

He opened his hands as if to show his helplessness.

"It isn't a matter of what I think. I'm not all-powerful. I can't obstruct justice by shielding my friends. Civilian authority can't simply be flouted."

Julia said, "I began."

"I know, Julia thinks all I have to do is wave a hand. But these things are ticklish. Civilian authorities were called in about those cars and about Ivan's murder. He was a civilian. So was Sandra, though in one sense she was under my jurisdiction. But murder is different. It's a military crime, but it's also a civil crime. Even if Jeff were tried by court-martial he could still be subject to civil trial. And I doubt if I could successfully oppose the arrest for murder of any of my personnel. Except by the one step I have taken."

"You mean—by arresting Jeff yourself? Oh, but why didn't you explain all that to Julia? It would make her feel so much better. She thinks you're convinced of Jeff's guilt."

"I saw his face then, and my words trailed off."

"Jeff has been like a son to me," he said slowly, after a little pause. "Don't you think I'd rather believe him innocent? But what am I to think? First Ivan, now Sandra. There's only one common factor, and it's Jeff. Then there's that blood-stained towel!"

"But don't you think that was too stupid to be true?"

"Murderers aren't all as clever as the ones in books," he said dryly. "And he had obviously manhandled Sandra."

"He told us he didn't give Sandra that black eye."

"Would you expect him to admit it? Then the chaplain—he has rooms next to theirs at the club—told me reluctantly this morning that he heard them quarreling for about an hour, after they got home from the reception. He said he couldn't hear any words, but they both sounded angry. And Jeff didn't deny it. He just refused to say what the quarrel was about."

"I may have been merely because he had appeared in public looking like that. But the fact that they quarreled doesn't necessarily mean that he killed her, does it?"

Colonel Pennant looked deeply troubled.

"I don't want to think the boy is guilty," he said. "But if he isn't, who is?"

"I wish I knew," I drew a deep breath and plunged. "And the worst of it is that what I have to tell you is only going to make it look blacker for Jeff. That's why Julia doesn't want to tell. And maybe she's right. But I have an old-fashioned belief that when you get together all the pieces of the truth that are available you'll begin to see the whole truth. And—and if Jeff really did kill her, Julia might better find it out as soon as possible. Because I think he's in love with her, too."

He looked at me helplessly.

"It isn't polite to tell a lady she's demented," he said with a quirk of his mouth. "Well, never mind. I'm accustomed to female intuitions and admit to my sorrow that they're often sound. Suppose you tell me what you know."

So I told him of our seeing Sandra and Ivan embracing on the barge, of Jeff coming up the ladder and Julia sending him off down the beach alone. And how Sandra had come down presently and left Ivan up there, and that as far as we knew he had not left the barge alive.

How Compulsory Military Service Would Make American Soldiers

Men 21 to 31 Fill Out Yellow Cards Numbers Drawn

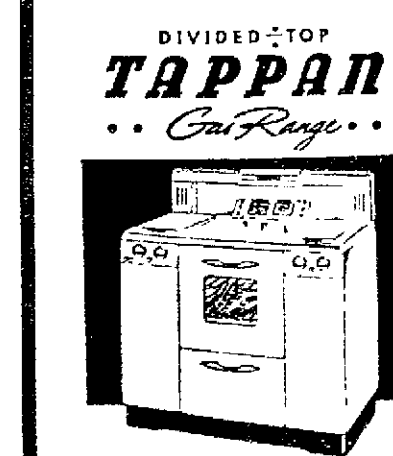

Here's how the compulsory military training will get started if the bill passes. First, all men between 21 and 31 will present themselves at designated spots for registration. Men from 18 to 21 and 31 to 64 will be registered later. Each man will fill out two yellow cards, keep one himself, give the other to the local drafting board.

Cards will be shuffled, given numbers. In Washington a similar series of numbers will be mixed in a box. Blindfolded officials will draw numbers.

Draft Board Designates Exemptions 'In Army Now'

Men holding the number drawn will go to local draft boards. Fill out long questionnaires, be examined for physical disabilities. Then boards will announce exemption, which Congress or the President may have designated, including men with families and men whose special skills are needed in war industry or some phase of civil life.

Finally, all those left available for military service will go off to army training posts where, if they pass another physical examination, they begin training.

BOYS AND GIRLS MAY REGISTER FOR NYA WORK

Under new regulations announced by the National Youth Administration, any unemployed boy or girl between the ages of 18 and 4 years is now eligible for work in the NYA program in Warren county, it was stated today by Robert Williams, local supervisor. "The bars are down completely in eligibility," Mr. Williams stated. "We are anxious that every boy and girl of the county who is within the age limit register at once, in order that we may get a cross-section of the unemployment problem among the youth here."

While all those who register may not be employed on projects immediately, there is a good chance that they may get early employment because of the fact that so many of the youth are finding places in private industry. All those desiring to register or NYA employment should report at the county office in the court house, Mr. Williams stated. He announced that work will be resumed August 5 on the Fourth avenue paving project, which has been carried on under the NYA program. Fifty boys will be employed on the project.

Altogether, 80 will be employed in NYA projects in the county, Mr. Williams stated.

Casual Slaughterers

By VIRGINIA HANSON

YESTERDAY: Gerald questions Kay minutely about Sandra's murder, asking if anything in the room has been touched. She thinks not. She moves over to the Pennant and goes with Julia to see Jeff.

Chapter 32 The Whole Truth

THE man on guard closed the door and stayed outside the barred room. He may have been listening, but I don't think Julia thought of that, or would have cared if she had. She went straight to Jeff and put both her hands in his.

"We'll get you out of this," she said in the voice you would use to a frightened child. "It isn't that Dan thinks you did it; he just has to take some action. It's the second murder and they haven't got anywhere with the first, yet."

"It's worse than that," he said through stiff lips. "They found a blood-stained towel in my laundry hamper. Dan asked me to explain it, but how could I? I don't know how it got there."

Julia's eyes blazed. "Someone's trying to frame you. Any idea who?"

"Don't you suppose I'd tell if I knew?" he asked wearily. "Who gave her that black eye? I didn't."

She drew a deep breath, and her face warmed almost to a smile.

"I knew you didn't," she said. I looked away from them, because it wasn't decent to see their defenseless eyes. But I had learned something. It was the first time I had seen Jeff with the barriers down.

They stayed down only an instant. Suddenly he freed his hands from hers and backed away, fairly bristling with barbed-wire defenses. I don't think it was anything she said or did; it was just reaction from that moment of forgetfulness.

"How would it be," Julia began bravely. "If we sat down and talked it over? Maybe we could think of something."

"There's no place to sit except one chair and the bed," he said churlishly. "And there's nothing to talk over. If you've come here to pump me you can get out. If he glanced at Julia's hurt, bewildered eyes and seemed to grow angrier. He was like a man fighting his own shadow."

"You've never heard," he went on with a cold look at me. "that my wife was afraid to occupy a room with me. You can believe that or not, just as you please. It's a matter of indifference to me. I married her. I don't know who killed her. I don't know who killed Ivan. And you can pump until you're black in the face and still go back and tell Dan that's all you found out."

Julia stamped her foot. "I did not come here to find out things for Dan," she stormed. "I came here to help you, but I don't know why I bothered. I've already lied myself blind, and so has Kay."

She stopped, appalled at what she had said. "Then you'd better tell the truth from now on," he said icily. "When I need lies told for me I'll let you know."

He went to the door and opened it, held it until we had passed through.

Head high, Julia marched down the corridor and out of the hospital, as if as soon as we were in the car she gave way to a storm of tears. I took the wheel and drove aimlessly for a while, waiting for her to get control of herself.

Cold Fury
"IF ONLY Adam were here," I said finally, out of the depths of my thoughts. "Julia, he was right. Jeff was right. We'd better tell your father the truth."

"Oh, no, Kay, you don't mean that—not with Dan already thinking Jeff killed her!"

"But the only way we can do anything to help Jeff if he isn't the murderer is to find out who is. And how can we expect to arrive at the truth until we all pool our knowledge?"

"But don't you see—all we've withheld is just what will make it look blacker for Jeff. And I know he didn't do it!"

"Oh, no, that isn't all. How about Mimi? You said it was her car that night at the barge. We haven't told that."

"I never said that," she said quickly, desperately. "You're imagining things."

"So that was the way of it. I fell silent, thinking, until we drew up once more at the colonel's quarters. Then, before I got out, I gave her my considered decision.

"I'm sorry, Julia. If Adam were here I'd go to him with it. Since he isn't it will have to be your father."

You mean—you're going to tell him everything?"

She looked stunned, as if her last friend had deserted her, and I had to steel myself against sympathy.

"Everything," I said firmly. "It's different now. Sandra's death—and the way she was killed—There's no use talking, Julia, someone around here isn't human. And every lie we tell is in that creature's service. I'm not going to take the responsibility."

"I see," she said. Her tears were dry, and there was cold fury in her voice. She got out of the car and walked, without a backward glance, into the house and up the stairs to her room.

I had to see the colonel at four, followed her into the house.

AMBASSADORS RETURNING

Rome, July 27.—(A)—U. S. Ambassador William Phillips plans to leave Rome Monday for a brief vacation in the United States. He will be accompanied by Ambassador John Cudahy, who is returning to Washington from Brussels. Cudahy left the Belgian capital after Germany asked all foreign diplomats to leave Belgium and the Netherlands.

Mimi must have been lying down, for the living room and library were untenanted. So presently, feeling myself an unwelcome guest, I went up to my room and put my things back in my overnight bag.

I went down as soon as I heard the colonel come in, and faced him with inner quaking across his big desk in the library.

"Colonel Pennant, I have a confession to make," I began. "I hope you don't mean that literally," he said with a nice smile. The smile put me a little more at my ease. After all, I had danced with this man and laughed at his jokes and warmed to his good-natured flattery. He looked a little tired this afternoon, and his eyes were sad, but he was not formidable.

He placed a chair for me, found cigarettes and supplied me with a light. Then he went back to his chair behind the desk and looked at me expectantly.

"I've been holding something back," I said, looking him straight in the eyes. "This isn't going to be easy, because Julia and I don't see alike about it, and it's sort of like telling tales out of school to come to you with it."

"You mean Julia has been holding out on me, too?" he asked impassively.

"Yes, but with the best of motives. Please don't let me get her into trouble. I'm fond of Julia. I know she's straight. I just think she's mistaken about this. But where Jeff's concerned—you see, she's in love with him."

"Good Heavens!"

He stared at me across the desk.

Blacker For Jeff

"MAYBE I shouldn't have told you, but I thought it would make you understand better. It's quite true," I assured him.

"I hope you're mistaken," he said simply. "Jeff will almost certainly stand trial for murder."

"You mean you think he's guilty?"

He opened his hands as if to show his helplessness.

"It isn't a matter of what I think. I'm not all-powerful. I can't obstruct justice by shielding my friends. Civilian authority can't simply be flouted."

"Julia said—" I began.

"I know, Julia thinks all I have to do is wave a hand, but these things are ticklish. Civilian authorities were called in about those cars and about Ivan's murder. He was a civilian. So was Sandra, though in one sense she comes under my jurisdiction. But murder is different. It's a criminal crime, but it's also a civil crime. Except by the one step I have taken."

You mean—by arresting Jeff yourself? Oh, but why didn't you explain all this to Julia? It would make her feel so much better. She thinks you're convinced of Jeff's guilt."

I saw his face then, and my words trailed off.

"Jeff has been like a son to me," he said slowly, after a little pause. "Don't you think I'd rather believe him innocent? But what am I to do? First Ivan, now Sandra. There's only one common factor, and it's Jeff. Then there's that blood-stained towel."

"But don't you think that was too stupid to be true?"

"Murderers aren't all as clever as the ones in books," he said dryly. "And he had obviously manhandled Sandra—"

"That black eye," he said.

"Would you expect him to admit it? Then the chaplain—he has rooms next to theirs at the club—told me reluctantly this morning that he heard them quarreling for about an hour, after they got home from the reception. He said he couldn't hear any words, but they both sounded angry. And Jeff didn't deny it. He just refused to say what the quarrel was about."

"It may have been merely because she had appeared in public looking like that. But the fact that they quarreled doesn't necessarily mean that he killed her, does it?"

He looked at me helplessly. "It isn't polite to tell a lady she's demented," he said with a quirk of his mouth that didn't quite make a smile. "Well, never mind. I'm accustomed to female intuitions and admit to my sorrow that they're often sound. Suppose you tell me what you know."

So I told him of our seeing Sandra and Ivan embracing on the barge, of Jeff coming up the ladder and Julia sending him off down the beach alone. And how Sandra had come down presently and left Ivan up there, and that as far as we knew he had not left the barge alive.

How Compulsory Military Service Would Make American Soldiers

Men 21 to 31 Fill Out Yellow Cards Numbers Drawn

Here's how the compulsory military training will get started if the bill passes. First, all men between 21 and 31 will present themselves at designated spots for registration. Men from 18 to 21 and 31 to 64 will be registered later. Each man will fill out two yellow cards, keep one himself, give the other to the local drafting board.

Draft Board Designates Exemptions

Men holding the numbers drawn will go to local draft boards, fill out long questionnaires, be examined for physical disabilities. Then boards will announce exemptions which Congress or the President may have designated, including men with families and men whose special skills are needed in war industry or some phase of civil life.

'In Army Now'

Finally, all those left available for military service will go off to army training posts where, if they pass another physical examination, they begin training.

REGISTERING ALIENS

Aliens probably will be asked fifteen questions when they go to the Post Offices to register and be fingerprinted between August 27 and December 27.

An official at Washington, familiar with the huge task of signing up 3,600,000 non-citizens, says that plans virtually have been completed, but that the nature of the questions would not be disclosed for several days.

It is reported, however, that there would be two or three "searching" queries intended to bring out each alien's fundamental attitude toward the United States.

Six of the proposed questions will not be applicable to aliens under 14. This group, to be represented by parents or legal guardians, will not be fingerprinted but must be registered.

Solicitor General Francis Biddle, assigned the job of coordinating the immigration and naturalization service with other Justice Department units, called key immigration and Post Office officials to Washington this week to discuss final details.

Officials say that as the program now stands, fingerprinting will be done in first and second class post offices and in post offices in county seats, a total of about 8,000 registration places being listed.

THE FIRST TWENTY MILLION

The American people have reason to be proud of the fact that the Red Cross' $20,000,000 emergency fund is almost completely raised.

Much of the money, or supplies bought with it, have already been sent to Europe. President Roosevelt did well to assure the people that proper precautions are being taken to prevent such supplies from falling into the hands of the conquerors.

We have heard people audibly resent the sending of such help abroad when there are unfortunates in the United States who could use the money. After all, we have spent not millions, but billions for the benefit of our own underprivileged. There is no thought of deserting them. It is unlikely that money contributed to the Red Cross for this relief has deprived American sufferers of a penny.

WEEKLY SERMONETTE
"THE FINE ART OF LIVING"

MARTIN HAMLIN
Calvary Baptist Church

Read Matthew 6:33

The Prime Objective of Life—The one great end and purpose of all life and of every life is primarily and ultimately—GOD.

The Chief Business of Life—That which should be of the utmost and vital concern to all, is—To seek first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness.

The one and the true order of all our living should be—first, God; second, others; third, self. Or to put it another way—first, righteousness; second, duty; third, pleasure. In the measure that we make this the true order in our own individual lives and seek also to make it the true order in the lives of others of our fellow men, in that same measure will we individually and together enjoy the favor and the blessing of God.

From the very beginning God the Eternal made us in His own likeness and for Himself alone—to live and move and have our being in Him (Genesis 1:27; 2:7; Acts 17:24-31). That also is the reason why, as St. Augustine so aptly puts it in his "Confessions"—"the heart of man is restless until it finds its rest in God." Yes, we were, every one of us, made of God and for God; to love Him, fellowship with Him, serve Him; to do His holy will, honor Him and glorify Him—that is the highest, the supremest, the most fundamental and essential thing in life, and should therefore be uppermost in our minds and hearts.

No life, however well-ordered, prospered and commendable it may be otherwise, can be considered to be noble or successful from the Christian point of view. Until and unless our lives are centered in Jesus Christ, energized by the Holy Spirit and controlled by our Father in heaven we are living below par, minus the approbation and the blessing of Him who has said, "until heaven and earth pass away, not an iota, not a comma, shall pass from the Law until all has taken place. So whoever breaks one of these least commandments, and teaches others to break them, shall be called least in the kingdom of heaven. But he who keeps them and teaches them, he shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven. For I assure you that unless your righteousness exceed that of the Scribes and Pharisees, you will not find entrance into the kingdom of heaven" (Matt. 5:17-20); and again, "Just as the branch cannot bear fruit of itself except it abide in the vine, no more can you, unless you abide in Me . . . because apart from Me you can do nothing. If any one does not abide in Me he is thrown away like a branch and withers. Such branches are gathered up and thrown into the fire and burned. By this is My Father glorified, by your bearing abundant fruit, so being my disciples" (John 15:1-8).

These are indeed the "wholesome words of Jesus Christ" and the most wholesome counsel of the ages, for all those who would come to the knowledge of the truth which goes with godliness, and the fine art of living, abundantly, exalted and eternally. For God alone, in the Person of His only begotten and beloved Son, can save your undying soul and mine, satisfy the deeper longings of our immortal spirits and make our lives truly and really worthwhile for all time and for all eternity. "For the world and its lusts are passing away, but he who ever does the will of God abides forever." (1 John 2:12-17).

T-H-O-U-G-H-T-S

And I will execute great vengeance upon them with furious rebukes; and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall lay my vengeance upon them.—Ezekiel 25:17.

If you have committed iniquity, you must expect to suffer; for vengeance with its sacred light shines upon you.—Sophocles.

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The American Automobile association here is up in arms. That isn't all. A lot of railroads, Canadian border hotel managers, and other persons who depend a lot for their livelihood on tourist trade to Canada, have a mad on.

Those reports—that if you cross the Canadian border you can't get back into the United States without a passport, a copy of the Constitution, and ability to repeat the declaration of Independence—have played hob with travel.

The situation became so serious that the AAA sent 15 investigators to border points to get the lowdown. Now they are roaring that there isn't a word of truth in it. The fact that Canada is at war has made some difference, they admit, but not enough to justify the nose-dive that Canadian travel has taken this summer.

The report is that it is a good idea for Americans visiting Canada to have means of identification, but that no specific documents are demanded. Birth certificates, voting registrations, membership cards—and a heap of patience in answering questions of immigration officers because of new regulations—would get anybody back across the border, say AAA officials.

The trouble and most of the reports of trouble have come from naturalized citizens who did not have their naturalization papers, the investigators found. At one key entry point near Detroit, the AAA sleuths found that out of 15,000 persons re-entering the United States during the first five days of July, only two had been turned back.

ONE of the principal topics of conversation around Washington these sweltering days is what effect the Hatch bill, signed the other day by President Roosevelt, is going to have on the political campaigns this fall.

The answer is almost invariably that its effect will be tremendous. For example, the Democrats will be able to spend on their national campaign only a little more than a half as much as they did four years ago. And the $3,000,000 campaign expenditure limit will hold the Republicans to one-third of what they spent trying to elect Alf M. Landon.

That means fewer speeches by bigwigs traveling on party expense accounts. It means fewer campaign whindings. It means much less campaign blarney. It means the national party committees will be able to dole out much less for organization of the hinterlands.

The new Hatch bill will also take about 250,000 field workers who are paid partly by federal funds out of political activity.

BUT in spite of this it's going to be far from a dead campaign. That's what Washington is saying anyway. Wendell L. Willkie and his campaign generals, it is believed, will set down in every whistle stop in the country to take their case to the people personally. And even if President Roosevelt isn't able to leave his desk, his campaign corps will have to fight fire with fire.

The result then will be that the Hatch act will take a lot of the spending out of the fight, but it won't eliminate any of the lightning and thunder. The New Deal will be fighting for its life. Even the most pro-administration observers admit that the Republicans have a toe-hold. They'll be fighting tooth and nail to turn that into a victory.

YEARS AGO IN WARREN

Interesting Items Taken From the Warren Evening Times

In 1920

The Allegheny is higher now than in July for years owing to frequent heavy rains of the past month which makes the waterway navigable for barges. Four of these barges from the yards at Tionesta passed down the stream yesterday in charge of an experienced river pilot and crew who are taking them to the Pittsburgh coal market.

Not since the races have been held at the new track at the Fair Grounds has there been so many crooks, more commonly called "dips" in attendance than there is this week. They have, in most instances, been spotted and are laying pretty low.

The new and attractive brick store building of Carl Russo, Conewango and Third avenues, which has been in the course of construction for several months is finally ready for occupancy.

The local hotels are unable to accommodate those who are attracted to the races at the fair grounds this week and many guests were "famed out" to private residences.

Tomorrow the workers endeavoring to raise the $14,256 for the Old Home Week celebration will center their efforts on the manufacturers here.

In 1930

Warren's lone tree-sitter, Frank Massa, passed his 84th hour in the leafy perch on the East Side this morning at 7:30 o'clock and is still going strong. A radio installed by the Warren Radio Company helps him pass the hours. A feature tonight will take place when Joe Conti, East Side barber, will climb the tree to give him a haircut.

The second tie in as many games was played last night when the Barrette Cleaners and State-Bankers, the final score being 7-7, when the match was called in the fifth on account of darkness. Clowing of the State-Bankers, especially that of "Rube" Swanson, featured the tilt.

The following will represent Warren county at the future farmers' meeting August 18-21 at Penn State College: William Knapp, Lander; Theron Johnson, Sugar Grove; John Hook, Chanders Valley; Stephen Richardson, Columbus; John Mallory, Lottsville, and Golden Ahlgren, Russell.

Gust Cheronis is a member of the entertainment committee planning the Greek Statisticians Association's annual outing and picnic to be held at Celoron Park August 12 to 18.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—We were introduced the other night to a young woman who said she led a dull life and for goodness sake she wished something would happen to change the humdrum tenor of her days. Simply stifling with ennui, she was, and she confessed that she almost became bitter when she read of other people finding color and excitement in their lives.

There were many other people present, for it was an after-the-party, and during the evening she let drop a reference to "my first husband." She looked about twenty-five. "Yes," she said, "he was a California business man and a fine fellow, but somehow we couldn't hit it off, and after the divorce I went down into Mexico on a party and fell in love with an Arizonian who owned a big ranch down there. Shortly after that we got married, and a famous artist was best man."

"And are you still married to this rancher?" we inquired of this pretty prisoner of ennui.

"No," she replied. "We simply didn't get along together, and after the divorce I went down to Florida on a vacation and here I am in New York. I used to live here, but that was before my parents took me to China."

We didn't ask her anything more. We were afraid she had found Shanghai so dull that we simply couldn't stand it.

FOR a number of years now the beau ideal of detective novel titles has been The Thin Man. There is a title that has everything. It has color. It has a zest. It is something you love to roll around on your tongue. Titles have become so important, from a merchandising point of view, that only in rare instances do editors and publishers give authors final say on titles of their books. As a matter of fact, most writers are poor selectors of titles.

We have a case in point right here in New York—that of a long, lanky, shadow-thin North Carolinian known to his intimates as Andy Anderson.

Mr. Anderson has written a murder mystery, and it is soon to come off the press. The working title of this book was "Murder Mountain," because a mountain in N. C. is the locale of the story. But one day his publishers turned up with a brand new title. I think it is the best murder mystery title I ever heard. See what you think. It's "Kill One, Kill Two."

YOUR old friend the Professor, Kay Kyser, relays this story of the two Jewish boys who were lunching at a 46th street delicatessen.

"A fine pal you are, Jake," "What's troubling you, Moe?" "Here we are having lunch together. We've had lunch together every day for five years. And not once, not once mind you, have you asked me how business was. Aren't you my friend! Dunt you care?"

"Moe," cried Jake, apologetically, "I just didn't think. Of course I'm your friend. Tell me, how's business?"

"Dunt ask," moaned Jake, throwing up his arms in despair.

FUNNY BUSINESS

THE proposed joint issue of an Anglo-French allied stamp, symbolizing the unity of England and France, has been cancelled following the French armistice with Germany.

Latest French issues include two Red Cross semi-postals; one pictures a wounded soldier being cared for by nurse and physician while a woman and child look on; the other shows a wounded soldier and a nurse.

American-built airplanes, recently purchased by Argentina, will be pictured on a new series of five airmails.

Stamps of the Netherlands have been suppressed by Nazis and German issues, overprinted "Army of Occupation," have been substituted.

Mexico has announced a commemorative issue of two stamps marking the 400th anniversary of the settlement of Campeche, by the Spanish in 1540. The postage item will show the city's coat-of-arms and the airmail a portrait of Francisco de Montejón, the Spanish founder.

PATTERN 4506
BY ANNE ADAMS
There's a fashion fanfare over embroidery! Anne Adams keeps right in step with the lovely leaf design that trims her Pattern 4506. Directions for making the easy transfer motif are included with the pattern. Of course the embroidery is optional—the frock is wonderfully becoming on its own! Those two long front panels give slimming lines. And high side-front waist-seams for nice skirt flare. Shimmering at the shoulders is holding the full-cut bodice lines in place. The gather-trimmed sleeves are either three-quarter or short. Do make this frock in a lovely crepe, perhaps with embroidery in a soft, harmonizing color.
Pattern 4506 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 3 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric.

Concert In Gardens Sunday Afternoon
The Olmsted gardens at Ludlow will be the setting for another Sunday afternoon concert sponsored by the Moriah Lutheran Choir and the Lutheran Circle tomorrow, the hour having been set at six o'clock, D.S.T.
Familiar and loved musical compositions will be heard and the Rev. G. K. Stark, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church here, will give the address. Rev. Carl E. Lundgren will voice the invocation and Rev. Anthony Groves, the benediction.
The Methodist Orchestra of Sheffield, conducted by Dr. J. A. Allen, will contribute to the program and the choir, conducted by Mrs. Amelia Mattison, will sing two requested selections. Mrs. Francis Piecker, soprano of Elizabeth, N. J., who was the former Marguerite Thomas of Tidoute, will sing; also Mrs. Emil Nelson, Ludlow soprano and the former Melville Thomas of Tidoute, and Leland Engman, Ludlow baritone. These soloists as well as their numbers, have been requested.
The Cathedral Trumpeters, of Jamestown, N. Y., will provide four numbers of their own church. To those attending the concert, Mrs. Olmsted has extended an invitation to visit the lower gardens before the concert and to view the Alpine gardens following the program. In case of rain, the concert will be given in the Ludlow Lutheran church.
A silver collection is to be taken for the benefit of the two sponsoring organizations.

Family Reunions

REUNION AT KRANTZ FARM IN GRAND VALLEY
The Carlson-Peterson reunion was held at the Krantz Farm at Grand Valley on July 20, with Mrs. Anna Krantz Lawson and Mrs. Gerda Lawrence as hostesses.
To many this reunion was like a home coming, as Grand Valley had once been their home. Mrs. Hilda Peterson and sons, Floyd and Ralph, of Detroit, Mich., lived in the Grand Valley Hotel in the days when it was nothing to serve 20 to 30 guests. Another Peterson family once lived in the first house below the tracks, where were born Willis Peterson, Jennie Peterson and Mrs. Ada Peterson Engstrom. The Glatz family, Albert, Rose and Lillian Glatz Peterson, were their neighbors; Mary Carlson was once employed by Mrs. L. B. Wood, while the Johnston family once resided at nearby Newton. Mrs. Gust Swanson, daughter of Charles Krantz, who once worked in the Newton lumber mills, was present. To them and many others, Grand Valley has most pleasant memories and it seemed to be truly home.
For dinner, the tables were set in the grape arbor and about 60 were present, all enjoying a picnic about two o'clock. In the afternoon, sports of all kinds were played by young and old. At four the young people went for a swim in the "old swimming hole" at Selkirk, while the older folks spent the time in reminiscing, finishing the day by partaking of ice cream and cake.
Guests were present from Detroit, Mich., Dunkirk, Fredonia, Jamestown, Falconer and Freysburg, N. Y.; Chancellors Valley, Warren and Titusville.

PATTERN 4506

BY ANNE ADAMS

There's a fashion fanfare over embroidery! Anne Adams keeps right in step with the lovely leaf design that trims her Pattern 4506. Directions for making the easy transfer motif are included with the pattern. Of course the embroidery is optional—the frock is wonderfully becoming on its own! Those two long front panels give slimming lines. And high side-front waist-seams for nice skirt flare. Shirring at the shoulders is holding the full-cut bodice lines in place. The gather-trimmed sleeves are either three-quarter or short. Do make this frock in a lovely crepe, perhaps with embroidery in a soft, harmonizing color.

Pattern 4506 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 3½ yards 39 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

They Found Peace—in America

In sharp contrast to their harried life in Europe is the peace enjoyed by former Empress Zita of Austria and her daughter, Archduchess Elizabeth, since their recent arrival in the United States. Guests of New York broker Calvin Bullock, they are pictured reading at his Royalston, Mass., summer home.

Dry Humor

Protected against the rain by a transparent hat bag, Mrs. Wendell Wilkie, wife of the G.O.P. Presidential nominee, heartily enjoyed the humorous antics of clowns at "Frontier Days," annual round-up at Cheyenne, Wyo.

First Church of Christ, Scientist
312 Market St.
Sunday service 10:45 a. m. Sunday school at 12 o'clock. Wednesday evening meeting at 8 o'clock.
"Truth" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, July 28. The Golden Text is: "O God, my heart is fixed; I will sing and give praise, even with my glory."
For thy mercy is great above the heavens; and thy truth reacheth unto the clouds." (Psalms 108:1, 4). Among Bible citations comprising the Lesson-Sermon is the following: "The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? The Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid? One thing have I desired of the Lord, that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to enquire in his temple." (Psalms 27:1, 4).
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:
"Eternal Truth is changing the universe. As mortals drop off their mental swaddling-clothes, thought expands into expression. Let there be light, is the perpetual demand of Truth and Love, changing chaos into order and discord into the music of the spheres" (p. 255).

Helping Newlrvds
Cooking For Two
Dinner Menu
Ham Loaf, Horseradish Sauce
Escalloped Potatoes
Buttered Green Beans
Bread, Peach Pineapple Jam
Head Lettuce
1000 Island Dressing
Peanut Butter Squares

Ram Loaf
1 cup chopped cooked ham
1/2 cup soft bread
1 egg or 2 yolks
1 teaspoon finely chopped
parsley
Mix ingredients and pour into a buttered loaf pan. Bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Unmold carefully, cut into thin slices.
Garnish with sliced tomatoes or sliced hard-cooked eggs.

Horseradish Sauce

Garland

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Schell have gone to Washington, D. C., and other points of interest for their vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. John Zolko have left for Detroit and Chicago for their vacation trip.

Walter Hamilton has returned from Hamburg, N. Y., where he did a painting job.

Much sympathy is extended the Stock family in the tragic death of their son and brother, who met his death Monday when he was struck by an automobile near his home in Pittsfield. Mrs. Steck had just returned from Chicago where where she had been visiting a son. She was accompanied by Mrs. W. C. Leofsky, of Garland.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis and son,
Frank, and Mrs. Stiles and son, Walter, have just returned from a vacation trip to Farrell, Mon-essen, New Castle, Pa., and Youngstown, Ohio. Mrs. Stec had the pleasure of seeing for the first time since her marriage 25 years ago, her bridesmaid. Both ladies were born and reared in the same village in Poland, members of the same church and attended the same school. They also learned from a letter from abroad of the bombing of homes in their native Poland.

Mr. and Mrs. William Vollman, of Erie, have been recent guests in the Bristow home here. Miss Joan Bristow, accompanied by a girl friend, are now enjoying a visit here.

Two weddings were solemnized in this vicinity on Saturday, when Helen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Steve Nodzak, became the wife of Vern Antil at the home of her parents on Cole Hill, and Hazel Mae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seth Holmes, became the bride of David Welch at the home of her parents in Garland.

Your Screen Test

By ROBBIN COONS

1. The lady in the picture has a favorite "side" to offer the camera. Who is she, and which "angle" does she prefer? What's her real name and where was she born? What are the screen names of her sisters?

2. What American youngster recently gained complimentary notices for his performance as an English lad? In what picture?

3. When screen actors get swacked in movie scenes, what are they really drinking?

4. Ghosts have been playing active roles in several recent movies. Can you name three, and the "ghostly" stars of each?

5. Identify the personalities tagged in screen exploitation as (a) The Vamp, (b) The Butterfly Man, (c) The It Girl, (d) The Brooklyn Bonfire, (e) The Man You Love to Hate.

Count 20 points for each question correctly answered. A score of 60 is good, 80 is excellent, and 90 or above is colossal.

Farm Calendar

Pick Summer Squash-Summer varieties of pumpkins and squash should be used as soon as they have attained marketable size, say vegetable gardening specialists of the Pennsylvania State College. This will be while the fruits still are immature and the rinds soft.

Control Large Brown Patch-Weather conditions have been ideal for a severe outbreak of large brown patch of grass, say Penn State plant pathologists. Two parts of finely divided colomel and one part of corrosive sublimate used at the rate of two ounces of the mixture in 20 gallons of water will treat 1000 square feet of turf.

Destroy Poison Ivy-Common salt and lubricating oils can be used to control poison ivy vines in planted borders, according to ornamental horticulturists of the Pennsylvania State College. However, grubbing is conceded to be one of the quickest ways to get rid of the plant.

Have Different Meetings-Rural organizations can have interesting programs in the summer, say Penn State rural sociologists. Outdoor recreational programs are fun for everybody. Softball games, picnics, and volleyball tournaments can be arranged. Hiking, bird walks, and nature study periods are sure to please.

Control Late Blight-Plant pathologists of the Pennsylvania State College recommend that potato vines be kept thoroughly covered with 8-8-100 Bordeaux spray put on with 300 to 400 pounds pressure. Careful adjustment of nozzles is necessary to get the best coverage. Train Colts Early-foals which are handled and halter-broken at an early age lose their fear of man and are easier to care for as they grow older, say Penn State live-stock specialists.

WHAT CHURCH DO YOU ATTEND?

It makes little difference at this lovely hotel, located in the beautiful Park Place section overlooking the Boardwalk and Ocean, as churches of all denominations are close by and here you will find congenial friends of all faiths, the kind with whom you prefer to associate.

Added to this, you have the assurance of a most hospitable management and courteous servants to anticipate your wishes. Sleep in fine beds, cheerful rooms; and enjoy an abundance and variety of foods.

No liquor served.
But best of all, you will be astounded to learn how moderate the rates are. Write TODAY.

BOB RIGGS AND KOVACS PLAY IN TOURNEY FINAL

Seabright, N. J., July 27.—(P)—The big shining silver bowl that goes to three-time winners of the Seabright Invitation tennis championship went on the block again today, with Bobby Riggs, the national titlist, predicting he would be the highest bidder. Standing in Bobby's path to the title and one of the most famous trophies in tennis was Frank Kovacs, 2d, 20-year-old Californian with a whiplash sting on both sides of his racket. The young finalists have not played each other this season, but in past years they squared off half a dozen times. Kovacs, out of eastern grass court competition last year, has been moving along at a rapid pace. When he knocked defending Seabright titleholder Frankie Parker out of the current competition, galleryites compared his backhand driving to the famous left-side power of Don Budge, his fellow townsman from Oakland. Riggs gained the final yesterday when Gil Hunt, the unpredictable Washington, D. C., veteran, defaulted after dropping two listless sets under a searing sun. Kovacs eliminated steady Elwood T. Cooke, Portland, Ore., 6-4, 10-8, 6-3. Alice Marble and Mary Hardwick, the English girl, won their way into the women's finals with well-played, straight-set victories over Sarah Palfrey and Pauline Bet, respectively. They meet tomorrow, when the men's doubles final also is scheduled.

Sports Roundup

BY EDDIE BRIETZ New York, July 27.—(P)—Hoss talk: The smart guys have been touting Alf Vanderbilt's New World for the Arlington Futurity today. In our book he's got a lot of horse to beat in Mrs. Parker Corning's Attention. What's this about all not being well with Karyak's training? We'll find out when he looks like a champion in the eye this afternoon at Hollywood. Tom Gahagan is now in his 34th year as Grand Circuit scribe. Dr. H. M. Parshall, who does pretty well every year at the Hambletonian, has 25 winners to his credit so far this season. Stew Iglehart's play at No. 3 is the real reason Great Neck is favored over Bostwick Field in the national 20-goal polo championships Sunday.

Today's Guest Star Bob Whiting, Paterson Morning Call: "Those baseball fans who've seen a nickel world series this year—the Yankees vs. Brooklyn—are thinking of moving to Ohio. Cincinnati and Cleveland look like a much better parlay."

Mary Hardwick of London, who came over 11 months ago to play in the Wightman Cup matches, has stayed to travel 35,000 miles around the globe to U. S. A. No school will be harder hit than Texas A. M. when the government calls up colleges with military training. Most of the A. C. S. gridders belong to the R. O. T. C. Down in Fort Worth they're mighty sorry, sub. to see Frankie Laia, the Cats' bat boy under 10 managers, leave town. Oregon State is the first under the wire with its fall football brochure. HOLLYWOOD STAKE BEING RUN TODAY

Los Angeles, July 27.—(P)—Turf enthusiasts by the thousands swept on suburban Hollywood Park today, chanting the names of Chalcedon, Kayak II, Can't Wait and other thoroughbred stars slated to go postward in the third running of the $50,000 added Hollywood Gold Cup.

By airplane, train and motor car, rich and poor, famous and humble, they came to watch the summer time racing classic of the west—which fell to the rounding strides of the mighty Seabiscuit in 1938, and to his Argentine stablemate, Kayak II, a year ago. It was Kayak and the Maryland bred Chalcedon against the field; the racing silks of Charles S. Howard again pitted against the colors of W. L. Brann, but there was more than a chance for an upset in the mile and one quarter battle for the top purse of some $35,000.

SPORT SCATTERINGS

Local baseball fans will recall Al Costello, who performed very capably at the hot corner for Titusville semi-pro baseball teams three or four years ago, and probably many have wondered whether the heavy-hitting infielder ever graduated into organized ball. Your agent recently learned that Costello is one of the current favorites in the East Texas League, where he is capering around third base for the Longview Texans, on option from the Tulsa team of the Texas League. The Oilers purchased Costello from Palestine of the East Texas wheel during the winter. Incidentally, an indication that Al is doing all right is his being chosen as one of the infielders for the recent All-Star game of that circuit.

We have heard a great many stories regarding the scouting system of Louisiana State University, which seems to have a string on nearly every worthwhile scholastic griddier in the nation, and were pleased to learn that the circus-like spectacle the late Kingfish Huey Long and his successors made of the sport at the university is going to be shoved in the ashcan by crusading Governor Sam Houston Jones. The new executive promised that football won't be curtailed, but de-emphasized. No more cross-country excursions at the university's expense, no holidays after every major victory, no blocks of free tickets for every big shot politician, no more airplane trips for professional scouts.

A graduate of an eastern Pennsylvania high school where football is really football told your agent not so long ago that two of the 1939 stars of the school had been "hired" by Louisiana State. They were contacted by long distance telephone and then ferried to Louisiana State's training camp the following spring via transport plane. When they arrived, each boy was assigned a private room with shower, given his three meals a day, spending money, and assured a substantial income in addition to board, room, books, tuition and clothing should he show himself worthy of L. S. U.'s great name in football. Not bad for an 18-year-old kid who could tote a football a little better or tackle a little harder than the average youth.

You said it! The South Side playground softball diamond needs a load of dirt, the Fraternal League enthusiasts tell us. Just in case the borough is wondering where to dump that next truckload. Howard Sheen, Corry schoolman and one of the finest basketball players in northwestern Pennsylvania a couple of decades ago, was a golfing at Conewango Valley on Thursday. Howard declined to comment on his score, but Mrs. Sheen carded an 89—not bad for a lady touring the course for the first time. And not bad for most of us any time. Sheen, a former member of the great Corry Keystone, reminisced a bit with another ex-court star, Melvin G. (Bony) Keller, ace guard of the Nameless Five. Doc Prothro, manager of the Phillies, is already pointing for next season by announcing the lowly National Leaguers will buy a couple of outfielders and a catcher during the winter. "We'll top Boston, Chicago and Pittsburgh for sure," Doc says. "The Cubs are so hard up they've taken on Bonura and Warstler and Pittsburgh has nothing." Elementary, Doctor.

SENSATION OF PUBLINX BOWS ON 38TH HOLE

BY GEORGE STAUTER Detroit, July 27.—(P)—A 31-year-old "week-end" golfer and a 23-year-old unemployed automotive factory worker who never have won a title of any consequence met today for pay-as-you-go golf's highest honor. At Rackham municipal course, where all week a huge field has torn par to pieces, Robert Clark of St. Paul and Michael Dietz of Detroit, faced a 36-hole duel for the National Public Links crown.

Their only claims to golfing fame are the St. Paul city championship won this year by Clark and medalist honors taken by Dietz in the sectional qualifying trial for the Public Links tournament.

From start to finish Clark's match yesterday with Furgol, tournament co-medalist, was a thriller. Clark, an ex-caddy who plays the game only on week-ends, seemed well on the way to certain victory when he took a 2 up lead at the end of 18 holes.

But Furgol squared the match on the way in. On the first extra hole both were trapped with their seconds. Clark was saved when his recovery struck the pin to enable him to halve the hole.

Furgol overshot the green on the thirty-eighth, landing in a trap, and exploded out 20 feet past the pin. This cost him the hole, because Clark, on the green in two, dropped his second putt for a par four.

Dietz, who played in a pair of shoes a half size too small for him, never was behind in his match with Roy Dolce, efficiency clerk for a Denver rubber firm, and won, 3 and 2.

Light-Heavy Champ Now Scales 183; Must First Trounce Pastor

Pittsburgh, July 27.—Johnny Ray, manager of Billy Conn, announced last night he had agreed with Promoter Mike Jacobs on a 15-round heavy-weight title bout between Conn and Champion Joe Louis at New York in September.

Conn, who has said he would resign his light heavyweight championship for lack of suitable opponent in that division, has been demanding a fight with Detroit's Brown Bomber for the past year. Ray held off, however, until yesterday, waiting for Billy to increase his weight. Now scaling 183 Conn would spot Louis about 17 pounds.

The match is contingent, though, upon outcome of Conn's fight with Bob Pastor at New York August 13. That will be the Pittsburgh Irishman's third heavyweight go. He has whipped Henry Cooper and Gus Dorazio.

Jacobs said at New York he had abandoned plans to rematch Louis and Maxie Baer and would sign the winner of the Conn-Pastor fight to meet Louis—providing the winner scored impressively.

Ray made his announcement in a telephone conversation with a Havre Boyle, Post-Gazette sports editor and a Pennsylvania boxing commissioner. "I did not agree to the Louis match until I was sure that Billy was ready. Now I'm sure. His work in camp here has been so good that I think he can lick anyone in the world. He weighed 183 today. That will be heavy enough for the Louis match."

"Of course, we have to beat pastor, but I'm not worrying about that. Billy will polish off Pastor and then go on to take the crown away from Louis."

The optimistic Ray is among the minority, most experts feeling that the 23-year-old Conn is still too light, lacks a knockout punch, and would take a beating from the dynamite fists of Louis. Conn's supporters swear, nevertheless, by his boxing skill and speed. His light-heavy victims include Fred Apostoli, Mello Bettina, Gus Lesnevich and Solly Krieger.

No Boxer Was Handled Better Than Billy Soose, Yet Screen Writing Manager Never Saw Fight Until He Seconded Newest Middleweight Star

BY HARRY GRAYSON NEA Service Sports Editor

WHO is this Billy Soose, who sprang into the middleweight championship picture by taking a divided 10-round decision from Ken Overlin in a non-title engagement in Scranton? Soose is a handsome, 23-year-old son of a steel worker. He is nearing the goal he set for himself almost 10 years ago, when he fought his first fight as a 98-pound amateur.

No boxer was brought along more carefully or skillfully than the slender Soose, yet the man who did this, Paul Moss, never saw a fight until he seconded the youngster in a Los Angeles preliminary. Soose and Moss, a Hollywood screen writer, are from Farrell, Pa. When Soose, after a remarkable record as a simon-pure, wanted to turn professional in the fall of 1935, Moss advised against it. He had a hand in sending the boy to Pennsylvania State College.

THERE Leo Houck, the middleweight luminary of 25 years ago, who coaches Nittany glomven, found his newest pupil required little instruction. Soose appeared 14 times as a collegian. He established the unprecedented record of winning every bout by a knockout. He was so good that college authorities passed a rule forbidding students with previous amateur experience to participate in college contests. Faculty managers of competing colleges let it be known they would not permit student boxers to tackle Soose during his two remaining years of eligibility.

So Soose packed his tack, and set sail for Hollywood, where Moss got his friend, Dick Powell, the movie star, to front as a means of attracting attention to his charge. Soose quickly became a favorite in the picture colony. He was a main event in his sixth start.

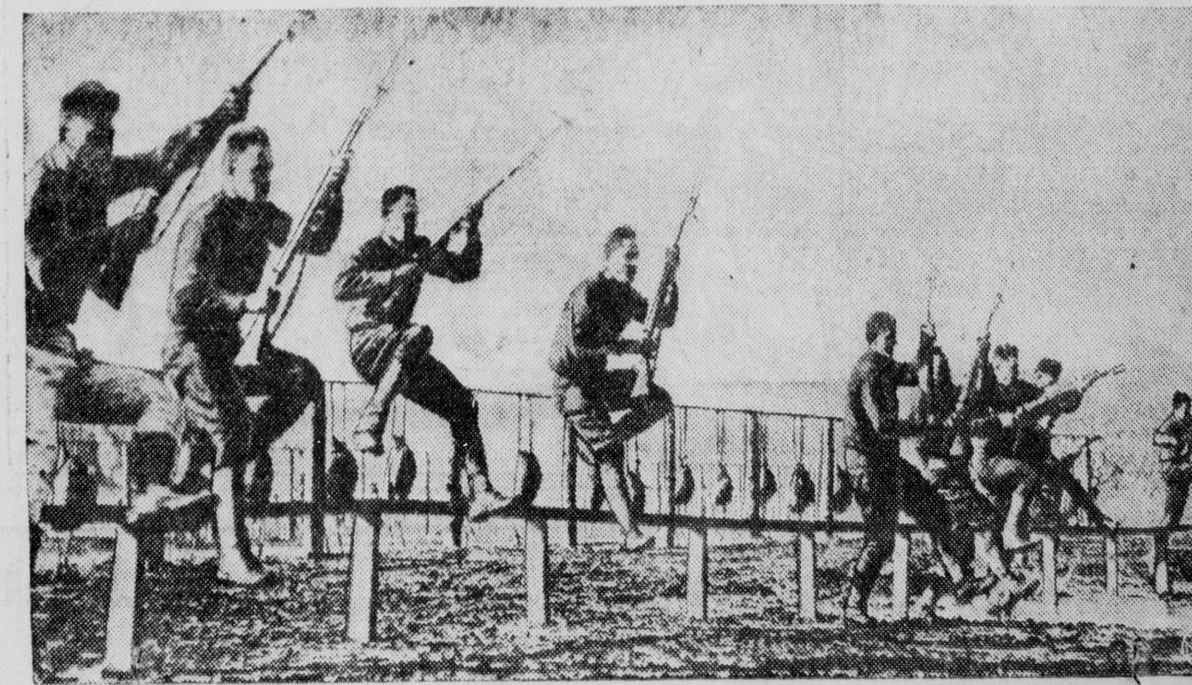

AN injury to his right hand forced him to retire temporarily in November, 1938. He took a job in a tube works in his home town. He labored with 100-pound ingots eight hours daily to toughen his mitts, but an operation was necessary to repair his right. He went to the Maine woods to build up his body and hands.

Moss knew nothing about the boxing business, so he hired one of the smartest handlers—Ray Arce!—and Soose was on his way once his hands held up. Billy Soose, who probably will quickly grow into a light-heavyweight, may not be good enough to win a world championship, but he has only to retain his looks to realize his other ambition, which is to graduate into the movies.

Historic Scenes Defense Draft Will Recreate

All over the U. S. scenes reminiscent of those of 1917, pictured here, will be recreated as Congress calls America's 42,000,000 men between 18 and 64 to register and start training in another great citizen army—this time for national defense. As in the 1917 photo above, "awkward squads" of civilians—impartially chosen from every walk of life—will report to training stations. And once more intensive training will turn the one-time clerks, mechanics, salesmen and others into the snappy soldiers seen below.

title and one of the most famous trophies in tennis was Frank Kovacs, 2d., 20-year-old Californian with a whiplash sting on both sides of his racket.

The young finalists have not played each other this season, but in past years they squared off half a dozen times.

Kovacs, out of eastern grass court competition last year, has been moving along at a rapid pace.
When he knocked defending Sea-bright title-holder Frankie Parker out of the current competition, gal-leryites compared his backhand driving to the famous left-side power of Don Budge, his fellow townsman from Oakland.

Riggs gained the final yesterday
when Gil Hunt, the unpredictable Washington, D. C. veteran, defaulted after dropping two listless sets under a searing sun. Kovacs eliminated steady Elwood T. Cooke, Portland, Ore., 6-4, 10-8, 6-3.

Alice Marble and Mary Hardwick, the English girl, won their way into the women's final with well-played straight-set victories over Sarah Palfrey and Pauline Bet, respectively. They meet tomorrow, when the men's doubles final also is scheduled.

was more than a chance for an upset in the mile and one quarter

SPORT SCATTERINGS

Local baseball fans will recall Al Costello, who performed very capably at the hot corner for Titusville semi-pro baseball teams three or four years ago, and probably many have wondered whether the heavy-hitting infielder ever graduated into organized ball. Your agent recently learned that Costello is one of the current favorites in the East Texas League, where he is capering around third base for the Longview Texans, on option from the Tulsa team of the Texas League. The Oilers purchased Costello from Palestine of the East Texas league during the winter. Incidentally, an indication that Al is doing all right is his being chosen as one of the infielders for the recent All-Star game of that circuit.

We have heard a great many stories regarding the scouting system of Louisiana State University, which seems to have a string on nearly every worthwhile scholastic griddle in the nation, and were pleased to learn that the circus-like spectacle the late Kingfish Huey Long and his successors made of the sport at the university is going to be shoved in the ashcan by crusading Governor Sam Houston Jones. The new executive promised that football won't be curtailed, but de-emphasized. No more cross-country excursions at the university's expense, no holidays after every major victory, no blocks of free tickets for every big shot politician, no more airplane trips for professional scouts.

A graduate of an eastern Pennsylvania high school where football is really football told your agent not so long ago that two of the 1939 stars of the school had been "lured" by Louisiana State. They were contacted by long distance telephone and then ferried to Louisiana State's training camp the following spring via transport plane. When they arrived, each boy was assigned a private room with shower, given his three meals a day, spending money, and assured a substantial income in addition to board, room, books, tuition and clothing should he show himself worthy of L. S. U.'s great name in football. Not bad for an 18-year-old kid who could tote a football a little better or tackle a little harder than the average youth.

You said it! . . . The South Side playground softball diamond needs a load of dirt, the Fraternal League enthusiasts tell us. . . . Just in case the borough is wondering where to dump that next truckload. . . . Howard Sheen, Corry schoolman and one of the finest basketball players in northwestern Pennsylvania a couple of decades ago, was a golfer at Conewago Valley on Thursday. . . . Howard declined to comment on his score, but Mrs. Sheen carded an 89—not bad for a lady touring the course for the first time. . . . And not bad for most of us any time. . . . Sheen, a former member of the great Corry Keystone, reminisced a bit with another ex-court star, Melvin G. (Bony) Keller, ace guard of the Nameless Five. . . . Doc Prothro, manager of the Phillies, is already pointing for next season by announcing the lowly National Leaguers will buy a couple of outfielders and a catcher during the winter. . . . We'll top Ben, Chicago and Pittsburgh for sure," Doc says. "The Cubs are so hard up they've taken on Bonura and Warstler and Pittsburgh has nothing." . . . Elementary, Doctor.

SENSATION OF Light-Heavy Champ PUBLINX BOWS Now Scales 183; Must ON 38TH HOLE First Trounce Pastor

BY GEORGE STAUTER
Detroit, July 27.—(AP)—A 31-year-old "week-end" golfer and a 23-year-old unemployed automotive factory worker who never have won a title of any consequence met today for pay-as-you-go golf's highest honor.

At Rackham municipal course, where all week a huge field has been par to pieces, Robert Clark of St. Paul and Michael Dietz of Detroit, faced a 36-hole duel for the National Public Links crown.

Their only claims to golfing fame are the St. Paul city championship won this year by Clark and medalist honors taken by Dietz in the sectional qualifying trial for the Public Links tournament.

From start to finish Clark's match yesterday with Furgol, tournament co-medalist, was a thriller.
Clark, an ex-caddy who plays the game only on week-ends, secured victory on the way to certain victory when he took a 2 up lead at the end of 18 holes.

But Furgol squared the match on the way in. On the first extra hole both were trapped with their seconds. Clark was saved when his recovery struck the pin to enable him to halve the hole.

Furgol overshot the green on the thirty-eighth, landing in a trap, and exploded out 20 feet past the pin.
This cost him the hole, because Clark, on the green in two, dropped his second putt for a par four.

Dietz, who played in a pair of shoes a half size too small for him, never was behind in his match with Roy Dolce, efficiency clerk for a Deaver rubber firm, and won, 3 and 2.

KEYSTONE GASOLINE
EMBLEM MOTOR OILS
BAIRD TIRE SHOP, INC.
7-27-31

Pittsburgh, July 27.—Johnny Ray, manager of Billy Conn, announced last night he had agreed with Promoter Mike Jacobs on a 15-round heavy-weight title bout between Conn and Champion Joe Louis at New York in September.

Conn, who has said he would resign his light heavyweight championship for lack of suitable opponent in that division, has been demanding a fight with Detroit's
Brown Bomber for the past year.

Ray held off, however, until yesterday, waiting for Billy to increase his weight. Now scaling 183 Conn would spot Louis about 17 pounds.

The match is contingent,
though, upon outcome of Conn's fight with Bob Pastor at New York August 13. That will be the Pittsburgh Irishman's third heavyweight go. He has whipped Henry Cooper and Gus Dorazio.

Jacobs said at New York he had abandoned plans to rematch Louis and Maxie Baer and would sign the winner of the Conn-Pastor fight to meet Louis—providing the winner scored impressively.

Ray made his announcement in a telephone conversation with Havvy Boyle, Post-Gazette sports editor and a Pennsylvania boxing commissioner.

Talking from Conn's training camp at Frimdale, N. Y., Ray said:
"I did not agree to the Louis match until I was sure that Billy was ready. Now I'm sure. His work in camp here has been so good that I think he can lick anyone in the world. He weighed 183 today. That will be heavy enough for the Louis match."

"Of course, we have to beat pastor, but I'm not worrying about that. Billy will polish off Pastor and then go on to take the crown away from Louis."

The optimistic Ray is among the minority, most experts feeling that the 23-year-old Conn is still too light, lacks a knockout punch, and would take a beating from the dynamic fists of Louis. Conn's supporters swear, nevertheless, by his boxing skill and speed. His light-heavy victims include Fred Apostoli, Melio Bettina, Gus
Lesnevich and Solly Krieger.

Chapson's SCOREBOARD
No Boxer Was Handled Better Than Billy Soose, Yet Screen Writing Manager Never Saw Fight
Until He Secoded Newest Middleweight Star

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor
WHO is the Billy Soose, who sprang into the middleweight champlonship picture by taking a divided 10-round decision from Ken Over-lin in a non-title engagement in Scranton?

Soose is a handsome, 27-year-old son of a steel worker. He is nearing the goal he set for himself almost 10 years ago, when he fought his first fight as a 98-pound amateur.

No boxer was brought along more carefully or skillfully than the slender Soose, yet the man who did this, Paul Moss, never saw a fight until he seconded the youngster in a Los Angeles preliminary.

Soose and Moss, a Hollywood screen writer, are from Farrell, Pa.
When Soose, after a remarkable record as a simon-pure, wanted to turn professional in the fall of 1935, Moss advised against it. . . . had a hand in sending the boy to Pennsylvania State College.

THERE Leo Houck, the middleweight luminary of 25 years ago, who coaches Nittany glovemen, found his newest pupil required little instruction. Soose appeared 14 times as a collegian. . . . established the unprecedented record of winning every bout by a knockout. He was so good that college authorities passed a rule forbidding students with previous amateur experience to participate in college contests.

Faculty managers of competing colleges let it be known they would not permit student boxers to tackle Soose during his two remaining years of eligibility.

So Soose packed his tackle and set sail for Hollywood, where Moss got his friend, Dick Powell, the movie star, to front as a means of attracting attention to his charge.

Soose quickly became a favorite in the picture colony. . . . was a main center in his sixth start.

A N injury to his right hand forced him to retire temporarily in November, 1938. He took a job in a tube works in his home town. . . .
labored with 100-pound ingots eight hours daily to toughen his mitts, but an operation was necessary to repair his right. He went to the Maine woods to build up his body and hands.

Moss knew nothing about the boxing business, so he hired one of the smartest handlers Ray Arcel—and Soose was on his way once his hands held up.

Billy Soose, who probably will quickly grow into a light-heavyweight, may not be good enough to win a world championship, but he has only to retain his looks to realize his other ambition, which is to graduate into the movies.

Historic Scenes Defense Draft Will Recreate

All over the U. S. scenes reminiscent of those of 1917, pictured here, will be recreated as Congress calls
America's 42,000,000 men between 18 and 64 to register and start training in another great citizen army this time for national defense. As in the 1917 photo above, "awkward squads" of civilians—impartially chosen from every walk of life—will report to training stations. And once more intensive training will turn the one-time clerks, mechanics, salesmen and others into the snappy soldiers seen below.

W. C. T. U Opens Drive For A Dry Army And Navy, As In 1917-18

Convention Held Certain to Ask War Prohibitions

BY DON P. SANDERS
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

Evanston, Ill., July 26—War-time prohibition today, but admits 1940 is no 1917 from a temperance viewpoint.

"No drink in defense" won't show on the program when 2500 leaders of the union's half million members hold their 66th annual convention in Chicago, Aug. 9-14. But officers here in Evanston say the convention is almost sure to endorse the drive.

Says Ida B. Wise Smith, national president:

"In this period of world crisis, it should be evident to all who cherish the democratic way of life that no nation eaten at the core by

British sailors, top, like their rum. American sailors, bottom, have to like their soda. Soda bars are the only kind allowed on U. S. warships. The W. C. T. U. thinks sailors should be forbidden drinks ashore, too.

war-time prohibition became effective July 1, 1919.

W. C. T. U. claims strong dry sentiment today, but admits 1940 is no 1917 from a temperance viewpoint.

Just the same, Mrs. Smith and her followers hope to condense the 1847-1914 temperance story into a single 1940-41 chapter, with the defense emergency doing most of the condensing.

They claim Washington already takes for granted that "mobilization for war would require immediate restrictions on the liquor traffic."

They point to wartime prohibition acts by belligerents in 1914-18, similar steps taken last winter by Germany, Japan and France, and England's restrictions of liquor production to one-third the 1938 output.

They say the U. S. should adopt such restrictive measures now as part of preparedness rather than waiting until war strikes.

No rum bounds are United States fighting men.

While the British navy lades out daily grog rations, Uncle Sam's sailors line up at the soda fountain that's part of every American warship.

Alcohol is prohibited on U. S. naval vessels, but sailors can buy hard liquor by the bottle and beer in naval stations, canteens and ship service.

No hard liquors are sold in army canteens; all beers are permitted. National guardsmen come under army anti-liquor regulations while in camp.

These restrictions are regarded as carry-overs from the World War days. By 1917 the armed forces were under complete prohibition.

Widening of prohibition as a conservation measure was next, and a bill forbidding use of food materials for production of alcoholic beverage went into effect.

In 1918 prohibition zones were

QUASHES INDICTMENT
Harrisburg, July 27 (P.)—The last scheduled trial of Democrats as a result of the 1935 campaign charges investigation will not take place.

Judge Howard W. Hughes of Washington county, specially presiding, announced he granted District Attorney Carl B. Shelley's petition to quash the indictment charging five Dauphin county Democrats tried to force political contributions from state employees.

With three state leaders, they previously had been acquitted of similar charges.

KNOWS THE ANSWER
Towanda, July 27 (P.)—Geo. W. Schuler, Berks county farmer, thinks he knows the answer to the old song title-question: "How're You Gonna Keep 'Em Down on the Farm?"

Farmers, he told the Bradford County Agricultural Conservation Association, must show the young folks "there is a good, profitable living there—show them cash and happiness, not just scenery and the old homestead."

Lakes are only short-lived features on the face of the earth, being the results of temporary obstructions to drainage.

set up around coal mines and war industries.

Direct goal of W. C. T. U. will be as always: prohibition, as complete as possible as soon as possible.

The nation has not spoken on drink and defense, but speaking for the W. C. T. U., Mrs. Smith reaffirms its historic stand.

"You can say definitely that at least 500,000 women will make every immediate effort to decrease the accessibility of liquor all down the line in the capital where vital decisions must be made, in the military forces, in key defense industries, and among all citizens."

FORMER WARREN RESIDENT DIES AT JAMESTOWN

Alexander I. Lawson, of Jamestown, president of the Lawson Furniture Company, Inc., died at Jamestown General Hospital last night, aged 66 years. He had been ill only a short time. He formerly resided here.

He was born March 21, 1874, in Farmington township and had resided in Jamestown for the past 30 years.

Mr. Lawson was married to Charlotte C. Anderson at Chambers Valley, June 19, 1901. She preceded him in death by three years.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Arthur G. Johnson, missionary on furlough from China, and Mrs. Raymond J. Smith, of Buffalo; a son Charles A. Lawson, of Jamestown; a sister, Mrs. Henry Lindell, of Sugar Grove, and five grandchildren.

Mr. Lawson was associated with the H. L. Greenlund Furniture and Undertaking Company here for ten years before going to Jamestown. He went there in 1910 as general manager of the former Gage Furniture Company, being employed by that firm until about ten years ago when he established the store bearing his own name.

ANNUAL PICNIC OF METHODISTS AT YOUNGVILLE

Youngville, July 26—The Townsend Club held an interesting picnic meeting this weekend on Island Park. The kitchen band was present and added to the enjoyment by its music.

AT CANADOTA LAKE

About one hundred and thirty were present Wednesday afternoon and evening at the Methodist picnic of the Youngville church, held at Canadota Lake. The bathing beach and water attractions were popular much of the afternoon. A bountiful evening dinner was served.

Gurney Ball had charge of the sports. In the woman's 50 yard race Lola Walters was winner. Winners in the other foot races were Mary Young, Carolyn Zelfi, Arden Johnson, Warren Jones, Philip Baumgardner and Earl Walters.

Marie Brown was the winner in the newspaper race. There was girls' ball throw, a bag race, several peanut races and a hunt. Numbered among the winners were Betty Zelfi, Lois Abbey, David Woodard and Dick Spencer.

Just as the sun was setting, Rev. C. M. Reed led the group in a devotional service under the great trees near the lake, giving a fitting close to a very successful picnic. Heads of all committees and workers deserve much praise for arrangements.

WITH THE LEAGUERS

Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Reed were recent host and hostess to the Epworth League. Plans were made for the continuation of the summer program. Pleasing refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. The Leaguers planned an unusual program for Sunday evening with Warren Haupt, home from State College, as leader.

Mr. and Mrs. George Smith are spending their vacation at Ocean Grove.

Miss Marjorie Mead, of Erie, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Mead. P. H. Mead was a Sunday guest and Mr. and Mrs. Mead have recently returned from a visit in Erie with relatives.

Jimmy Lucas and Fred Wilson are at Chautauqua Lake. The Methodist Woman's Foreign Missionary Society is using July as a vacation month but will meet at the usual date in August.

Miss Vivian Lawson is spending the first part of the week at Chautauqua and will later visit Harrisburg.

Monday evening Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Reed attended the testimonial dinner for Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Barr held in Jamestown by the ministers and their wives of the Jamestown district.

Miss Patty Hicks, former resident, is visiting in town. Mrs. Rufus Abraham and Mendal Lawson were Clarion visitors Thursday.

Dinner guests this week at the Methodist parsonage were Prof. and Mrs. Bloese and Mrs. Evans of Rochester, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Eric Anderson of Bradford.

Mr. Lillian Houser has returned to her home in Youngville after spending three and a half years in Seattle, Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Smathers and daughter Elaine of Mayville are to be guests this week of the Warren Jones family and attend the Old Home Week at Kelleysville on Saturday. Dorcas Jones will return to Mayville with them for a week's visit.

Miss Clarabelle Spencer from the Olive Branch Mission in Chicago is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Rogers.

KNOW YOUR BANK

This is No. 13 of our series of six giving interesting banking information.

Supervision and Examination of Banks

The federal or state governmental body which charters and supervises a bank has power to examine it at regular intervals—usually twice a year. In addition to the examinations required by state law of state banks and by the National Bank Act of national banks, both the Federal Reserve banks and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation are authorized to examine their members banks. We also have independent examinations conducted by authority of our board of directors.

The purposes of the examinations are (1) to ascertain that the bank is solvent, (2) to determine that it is operating within legal limitations, and (3) to ascertain that sound policies are being pursued. Through such examinations we obtain a review of our operations, and receive expert suggestions and advice on our policies and practices whereby we may improve the management of our bank and our service to our customers.

W. C. T. U Opens Drive For A Dry Army And Navy, As In 1917-18

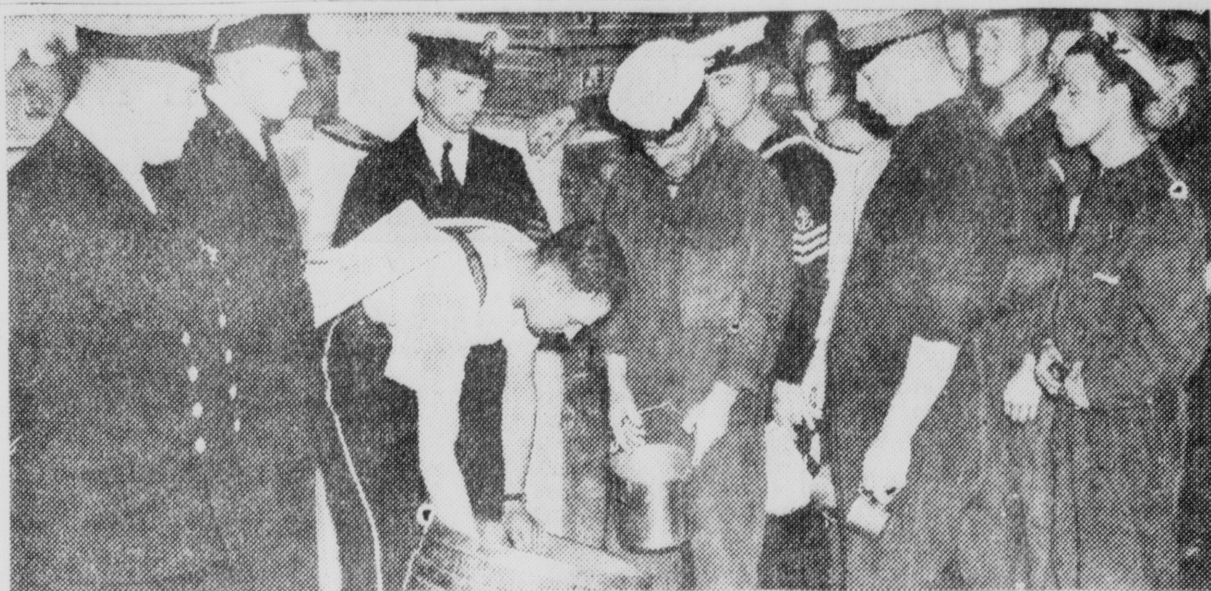

Convention Held Certain to Ask War Prohibitions

BY DON P. SANDERS

Evanston, Ill., July 26—War-time prohibition—the Women's Christian Temperance Union is all set to demand it as part of the national defense plan.

"No drink in defense" won't show on the program when 2500 leaders of the union's half million members hold their 66th annual convention in Chicago, Aug. 9-14. But officers here in Evanston say the convention is almost sure to endorse the drive.

Says Ida B. Wise Smith, national president: "In this period of world crisis, it should be evident to all who cherish the democratic way of life that no nation eaten at the core by wartime prohibition became effective July 1, 1919.

W. C. T. U. claims strong dry sentiment today, but admits 1940 is no 1917 from a temperance viewpoint.

Just the same, Mrs. Smith and her followers hope to condense the 1847-1914 temperance story into a single 1940-41 chapter, with the defense emergency doing most of the condensing.

They claim Washington already takes for granted that "mobilization for war would require immediate restrictions on the liquor traffic."

They point to wartime prohibition acts by belligerents in 1914-18, similar steps taken last winter by Germany, Japan and France, and England's restrictions of liquor production to one-third the 1938 output.

They say the U. S. should adopt such restrictive measures now as part of preparedness rather than waiting until war strikes.

No rum hounds are United States fighting men.

While the British navy ladies out daily grog rations, Uncle Sam's sailors line up at the soda fountain that's part of every American warship.

Alcohol is prohibited on U. S. naval vessels, but sailors can buy hard liquor by the bottle and beer in naval stations, canteens and ship service.

No hard liquors are sold in army canteens; all beer is permitted. National guardsmen come under army anti-liquor regulations while in camp.

These restrictions are regarded as carry-overs from the World War days. By 1917 the armed forces were under complete prohibition.

Widening of prohibition as a conservation measure was next, and a bill forbidding use of food materials for production of alcoholic beverage went into effect.

In 1918 prohibition zones were

QUASHES INDICTMENT

Harrisburg, July 27—(P.) The last scheduled trial of Democrats as a result of the 1933 campaign charges investigation will not take place. Judge Howard W. Hughes of Washington county, specially presiding, announced he granted District Attorney Carl B. Shelley's petition to quash the indictment charging five Dauphin county Democrats tried to force political contributions from state employees. With three state leaders, they previously had been acquitted of similar charges.

KNOWS THE ANSWER

Towanda, July 27—(P.) Geo. W. Schuler, Berks county farmer, thinks he knows the answer to the old song title-question: "How're You Gonna Keep 'Em Down on the Farm?" Farmers, he told the Bradford County Agricultural Conservation Association, must show the young folks "there is a good, profitable living there—show them cash and happiness, not just scenery and the old homestead."

set up around coal mines and war industries.

Direct goal of W. C. T. U. will be as always: prohibition, as complete as possible as soon as possible.

The nation has not spoken on drink and defense, but speaking for the W. C. T. U., Mrs. Smith reaffirms its historic stand.

"You can say definitely that at least 500,000 women will make every immediate effort to decrease the accessibility of liquor all down the line—in the capital where vital decisions must be made, in the military forces, in key defense industries, and among all citizens."

FORMER WARREN RESIDENT DIES AT JAMESTOWN

Alexander I. Lawson, of Jamestown, president of the Lawson Furniture Company, Inc., died at Jamestown General Hospital last night, aged 66 years. He had been ill only a short time. He formerly resided here.

He was born March 21, 1874, in Farmington township and had resided in Jamestown for the past 30 years.

Mr. Lawson was married to Charlotte C. Anderson at Chandelers Valley, June 19, 1901. She preceded him in death by three years.

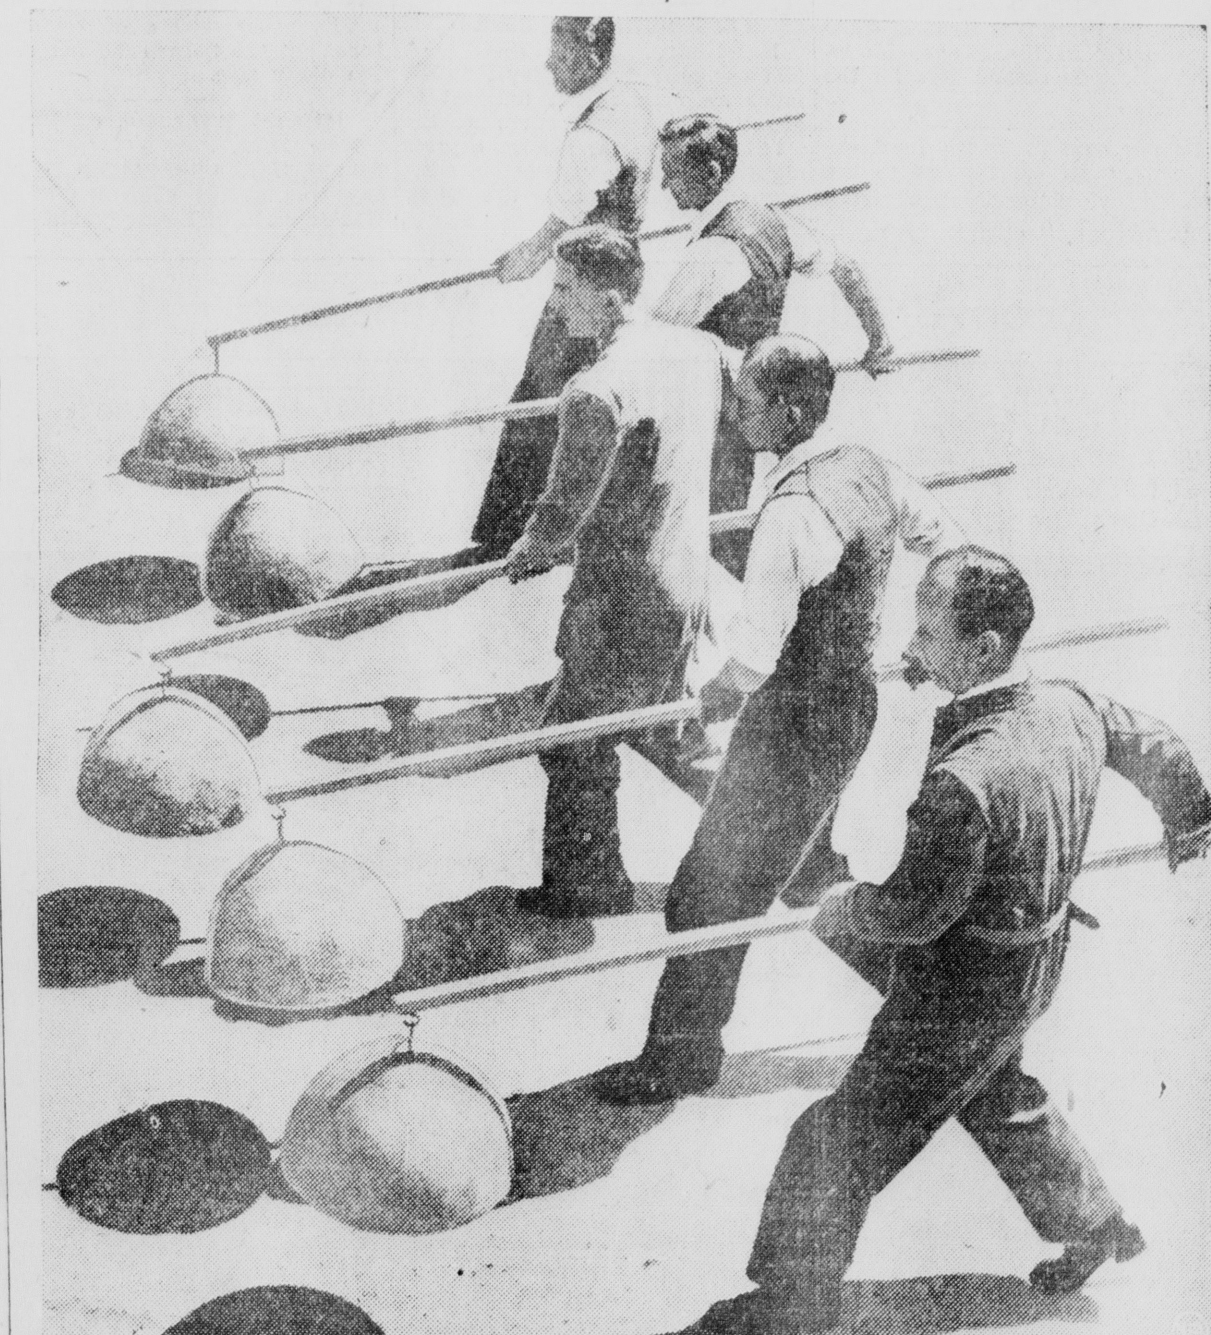

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Arthur G. Johnson, missionary on furlough from China, and Mrs. Raymond J. Smith, of Buffalo; a son Charles A. Lawson, of Jamestown; a sister, Mrs. Henry Lindell, of Sugar Grove, and five grandchildren.

Mr. Lawson was associated with the H. L. Greenlund Furniture and Undertaking Company here for ten years before going to Jamestown. He went there in 1910 as general manager of the former Gage Furniture Company, being employed by that firm until about ten years ago when he established the store bearing his own name.

ANNUAL PICNIC OF METHODISTS AT YOUNGSVILLE

Youngsville, July 26—The Townsend Club held an interesting picnic meeting this weekend on Island Park. The Kitchen band was present and added to the enjoyment by its music.

AT CANADOTA LAKE

About one hundred and thirty were present Wednesday afternoon and evening at the Methodist picnic of the Youngsville church, held at Canadota Lake. The bathing beach and water attractions were popular much of the afternoon. A bountiful evening dinner was served.

Gurney Ball had charge of the sports. In the woman's 50 yard race Lola Walters was winner. Winners in the other foot races were Mary Young, Carolyn Zelfiff, Arden Johnson, Warren Jones, Philip Baumgardner and Earl Walters.

Marie Brown was the winner in the newspaper race. There was girls' ball throw, a bag race, several peanut races and a hunt. Numbered among the winners were Betty Zelfiff, Lois Abbey, David Woodard and Dick Spencer.

Just as the sun was setting, Rev. C. M. Reed led the group in a devotional service under the great trees near the lake, giving a fitting close to a very successful picnic. Heads of all committees and workers deserve much praise for arrangements.

WITH THE LEAGUERS

Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Reed were recent host and hostess to the Epworth League. Plans were made for the continuation of the summer program. Pleasing refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. The Leaguers planned an unusual program for Sunday evening with Warren Haupt, in home from State College, as leader.

Mr. and Mrs. George Smith are spending their vacation at Ocean Grove.

Miss Marjorie Mead, of Erie, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Mead. P. H. Mead was a Sunday guest and Mr. and Mrs. Mead have recently returned from a visit in Erie with relatives.

Jimmy Lucas and Fred Wilson are at Chautauqua Lake.

The Methodist Woman's Foreign Missionary Society is using July as a vacation month but will meet at the usual date in August.

Miss Vivian Lawson is spending the first part of the week at Chautauqua and will later visit Harrisburg.

Monday evening Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Reed attended the testimonial dinner for Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Barr held in Jamestown by the ministers and their wives of the Jamestown district.

Miss Patty Hicks, former resident, is visiting in town. Mrs. Rufus Abraham and Mendal Lawson were Clarion visitors Thursday.

Dinner guests this week at the Methodist parsonage were Prof. and Mrs. Bloise and Mrs. Evans of Rochester, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Eric Anderson of Bradford.

Mrs. Lillian Houser has returned to her home in Youngsville after spending three and a half years in Seattle, Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Smathers and daughter Elaine of Mayville are to be guests this week of the Warren Jones family and attend the Old Home Week at Kelleetville on Saturday. Doris Jones will return to Mayville with them for a week's visit.

Miss Clarabelle Spencer from the Olive Branch Mission in Chicago is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Rogers.

To be a good defensive player, it is necessary to watch the drop of every card. Remember that it is your job always to tell your partner as much about your holding as possible. The declarer knows what the adverse high cards are, but the defense must gain this knowledge through the language of cards.

Supervision and Examination of Banks

The federal or state governmental body which charters and supervises a bank has power to examine it at regular intervals—usually twice a year. In addition to the examinations required by state law of state banks and by the National Bank Act of national banks, both the Federal Reserve banks and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation are authorized to examine their members banks. We also have independent examinations conducted by authority of our board of directors.

The purposes of the examinations are (1) to ascertain that the bank is solvent, (2) to determine that it is operating within legal limitations, and (3) to ascertain that sound policies are being pursued. Through such examinations we obtain a review of our operations, and receive expert suggestions and advice on our policies and practices whereby we may improve the management of our bank and our service to our customers.

five and his next the heart nine. Now West realized that South must hold the missing six of hearts, else East would have discarded it after the five; thus he knew he should throw away his ace of clubs and retain the queen of hearts to hold declarer to six-odd.

In tournament play, holding the declarer to six-odd may mean a very good score, while the loss of the 13th trick would certainly have given East and West a poor score.
